G.E.A. July 31/93 (18)

Mr Geo Oliver. 2 Yeomen's Inn Fleet Street E.C.

and. 50 Yalding Road. Bermondsey.

Called by appointment. Mr Oliver, who has been 17 years in the leather trade, but is now in the office of the Liberation Society, said he would give any information he could. He also holds some office at the Bermondsey Radical Club near Grange Road. After giving the names of some of the Unions he entered on a resume of the trade summarized as under:

The leather trade is divided into two branches: the heavy & light trades.

The Heavy Trade is that in bullock hides and horse hides and roughly corresponds with the manufacture of leather such as used for the soles of boots.

The light Trade is concerned with goats, sheep & similar skins and corresponds with the manufacture of leather as used for shoe "uppers".

The heavy skins are dressed principally with oak bark gambier & extract of hemlock: the light skins usually with alum and salt.

He then described the light trade, tracing the skin until it was had become the finished product.

Light skin Trade. Description of processes. After the animal is killed the skin (sheep or goat) is sent to the fellowonger who is a skilled artisan. He lays the skins out with a layer of lime between the ~~two~~ insides of two skins, it thus acts on the skin without touching the wool. After a time the lime's action has affected the skin so that the fellowonger can pull the wool. As he pulls the wool off he sorts it ~~into~~ according to quality sometimes into five or six different kinds.

The skin then goes to the leather manufacturer who for some purposes splits it. He then has to destroy the lime in the skin; this is done by putting it in a solution, the best being one in which dog's dung is the chief ingredient. [There is a considerable trade in this commodity. men collect it & sell it at 4/- per pail to the leather manufacturer. A large quantity is also received from the various kennels & hunting establishments] This rendered the skin soft by removing the lime & it is then ready for the tanner. If it is to be made up as mock kid it would be tanned in alum & salt, ~~solution~~ if for bookbinding or the tan<sup>colored</sup> glove it would be tanned in the ordinary way. The tanning only takes a few hours.

After the skin is taken out of the tanning liquor it is dried in a hot stove & becomes very hard. The grounder then takes it in hand; softens it and cleans the flesh side of the skin by rubbing it. The dyer then receives it & dyes it whatever colour is required & then passes it on to the finisher who polishes it, gives it the 'grain' etc.

The only difference between the dressing of these skins & calf skin is that the calf calf skin is put into the lime, except Mornel calf which is dressed with yolk of egg, flour, alum & salt. The yolk of egg is found to give a suppleness to the skin that nothing else will do.

The following is a list of workers, through whose hands a skin may pass :-

- |                             |             |
|-----------------------------|-------------|
| 1. Fellmonger               | 5. Pemerman |
| 2 Skinner                   | 6. Tanner   |

| 4 Flesher                   | 8 Dyer      |
|                             | 9 Finisher. |

Thinks that the labourer in the skin yard is the worst paid individual under the sun. Some men work from 6 am to 6 pm at Bevington's Tan yard for 20/- a week.

Trade is leaving Bermondsey. Some leather is imported now & the Tanning trade is going to the north - Leeds & Warrington.

Mr O. says that Messrs Bevington & Son use 1000 eggs per day in this way. The eggs are broken into tins & the yolks caught in the broken shells. The glair or white is used in the finishing process.

Summary of an Article published in the Bermudian Ratepayers' Chronicle by Simon the Tanner (G. Oliver) July 3 1891.

Tanning usually applied to the manufacture of heavy hides as used for sole leather, machine belting, harness &c

When the hide reaches the tanner, he soaks it in a solution of lime for a few days - this loosens the hair.
The hide is then placed on a crescent shaped block called a 'beam' & then the "unhairer" pushes the hair off with by means of a long knife with two handles. It is a laborious occupation requiring some care. The hide is then placed upon another beam, the flesh side being uppermost;
the "flesher" with a large very sharp two-handled knife tears off the first film & any flesh that may have been left by the butcher when skinning. Great skill is needed to tear off sufficient without damaging the hide. If the hide is intended for sole leather, the sides & neck are cut off & tanned in inferior liquors. The remaining part is called the "butt" & makes the best leather. A number of these butts are placed in a pit of weak tan liquor & shifted day after day into stronger liquors for several days until they are put into the strongest liquor where they remain until tanned. Formerly when only oak bark was used it took one to two years according to the substance of the hide to make good leather. Now it is done in three to four months.

After the hide is tanned it passes to the shedman who attends to the drying & finishing during which process it is scraped & rolled with heavy weight.

Machinery for unhairing and fleshing has been only a partial success but some inventions have reduced the amount of labour in the shedman's work.

Lads used to be apprenticed to the trade & were taught all branches but now men only learn one skilled branch & that sometimes by favour of the master, who promotes a labourer.*

—Wages. In full & good work (an unusual thing) the fleshers & unhairers earn 35/- to 2/- a week; shedmen without machinery about 30/- a week. Labourers' wages are generally 23/- per week but where piece work has been introduced they will earn about 30/- a week

Mr H. Preece. 16 Grange Walk, Bermondsey, S.E.
late Secretary of the Amalgamated Leather Trades Union

The Amalgamated L.T. Union was started in 1890 and broke up in October 1892. Jealousy was the cause. A Mr Daybourne tried to get the secretaryship; he led a strike and brought all the men out. They had previously won the 9 hours day. Had 2600 members at one time.

The trade was going from Bermondsey; Leeds was the chief competitor taking heavy flight work; Warrington took the light work only.

There were a large number of Societies connected with the trade but all were weak. An endeavour to combine them had been made but it failed. He was going to try again. Amongst other Societies having members in London he mentioned the following:

Leeds Society of Skinners

Birmingham Society of Skinners - headquarters at Lincoln.

Mutual Society of Curriers - See Mr Richardson. Had only 13 members a short time ago.

Mem In the paper lent by Mr Oliver there was an account of an open air meeting held in Bermondsey Square <sup>about</sup> July 1891 by the Leather Trade Union to celebrate the conclusion of a nine weeks' strike at Whitmore's Tannery, The Grange, Bermondsey. It was settled by arbitration, Mr Lafone MP & Dr Cooper being arbitrators. Then regarded the result as a triumph for themselves & Mr Preece in his speech claimed that the men had gained a 40% rise of wages. Mr Daybourne was a speaker.

Aug 1 1893 (14)

United Society of Journeyman Carriers of Gt Britain & Ireland.

Gen. Secretary. Mr. Geo. Regan. The Woolstack. Birmingham St. S.E.

Mr Regan gave me a copy of the General Rules; a copy of the Report for the quarter ending June 24th 1893 & the two Lists of Prices for Carriers' work viz for Boot Work - accepted May 1873; for Coach, harness & saddle work revised 1877. These lists give the <sup>per</sup> prices for various classes of work & the 'boot work' list a short definition of the work that is included in the price. See documents in pigeon hole marked A to D.

Constitution. By the General Laws the country is divided into six provinces: Bristol, Birmingham, Scotland, London, Manchester & Wellington. Each province has power to make local laws <sup>but</sup> not opposed to general laws & have a contribution at the rate ~~to~~ it thinks necessary to defray cost of local management. The Executive for General Management is located in London & consists of a President, Secretary (who is Secretary of the London Province also) & two Committeemen; the latter are elected ~~annual~~ quarterly & the President & Secretary annually.

Benefits. These are (1) Out of work (2) Sick pay & (3) Emigration allowance and 30 old members may also receive Supannation.

members "on Tramps" + other out-of-works can claim other minor benefits e.g. a loan of 10/- for books after being 'out' for 6 weeks; Subsistence money (1/6 per day) <sup>is advanced</sup> until the following Saturday <sup>when a man has obtained</sup> <sub>also a loan</sub> work.

Contribution for Local fund is fixed at 3<sup>d</sup> per week for ensuing quarter.

Unemployed Benefit is 10/-, 8/-, 6/- + 5/- per week, each rate for 13 weeks; after which a member must work + pay for 13 weeks before he can receive the 5/- rate and; another 13 weeks for the 6/- rate + so on. Sick pay at same rates may be drawn for 6 weeks in a year but a man must work at least 20 weeks before being entitled to receive sick pay again. A "gift" of £3 is made to the representatives of deceased members or pensioners. Emigration allowances of £3 are given to those going to North America + £6 to those proceeding to other British possessions. Money is paid to a shipping agent + this aid can only be received once. The qualifications for the pension of 4/- per week are that applicants must be 60 years of age + have been paying members for 25 consecutive years. Members with greatest number of years' standing take precedence. Members with 30 years' service are eligible for pension, irrespective of age if disabled.

Contributions are 1/3 per week to general fund, out of which, the above benefits are paid. Contributions are not enforced from members over 60 years of age but if they pay 2<sup>d</sup> per week, they will be eligible for pension. Members owing 10/- (contribution arrears) are "placed on probation" for 13 weeks after clearing the books, e.g. their rate of benefit is reduced 1/- per week for that period. If arrears exceed £2, the man is not regarded as a member.

An Unemployed member when leaving a shop and having finished his work so far as it is ready, his shopmates will calculate how long the remainder will take to finish & the man will have to pay contributions for such time & benefits will commence at the end of the time certified.

Any member leaving his shop without giving notice to his employer or leaving work in an unfinished state cannot receive benefit until he bring a certificate or clearance and if he obtain work in another, the Secretary shall, if complaint be made give notice to the town or shop stating how the man left his previous place and he shall be fined 10/- or other penalty as the Provincial Executive determine.

Members out of work are given a check book with duplicate vouchers in which is entered the amount he is entitled to receive. When receiving benefit he signs one check & leaves it with the paying Secretary, who signs the duplicate. This book has to be produced to the Secretary of at any town he visits 'on hump'.

Strikes & Disputes. If a dispute takes place it must be brought before the Executive of the Province, who will if important enough submit it to the Province by circular. If it is not settled thus ~~or~~ or if it is likely to affect the funds seriously, a statement must be land before the all the Executives, who will take the opinion of their provinces. This decision will be final. No "turn-out" (the word "strike" is not used once in the rules) is permitted without first obtaining the advice & approval of the London Executive. Dispute pay. A member leaving work by order of the Union is entitled to 12/- per week for 8 weeks or if married to 14/- & 4/- per week for each child under 13 years old. If out of work 8 weeks, he becomes entitled to out of work pay. Any officer discharged from his work thru' anything connected with his office is entitled to £1. a week until he obtains employment.

The London Province includes Barnet, Bury St Edmunds, Ely, Ipswich, Stowmarket, St Ives & Chichester, and during the quarter 242 had their names on the London books but of these 11 were in arrears over £3 reducing the number of members to 231. This compares with 53 less 5 less = 48 on the books of the other two towns of the province.

At the end of the quarter the membership of the London Province is returned thus: In Work 255; Out of work 13; Sick 1 = 269

Financial. The income of the Province for the Quarter ending June '93 was as follows: General Account £607.15 - £250. - Local " 38.8 £645.5

Compare Returns 1891 with 1871 on the question of deduction of men in trade.

Mr Regan says that the <sup>(Carrying)</sup> trade is being reduced especially in London. He attributes it to the importation of dressed leathers from France, Germany & Belgium. They seldom dress a calf skin now. "They (the foreigners) beat us practical at that". The number of men in the trade is declining now. Only about half as many as 20 years ago. This would apply to the whole trade as well. Machinery accounts for part of the displacement.

Talking of the conservative merits of various firms, W.R. gave the following opinions:

Bad Messrs Conolly - Charlton Street Coach curriers.

never employ Society men. Pay below standard rates.

Messrs W.R. Shaw & Son. Wild's Kent Bermondsey.

Was a Society house. Had a dispute about prices; now non-society - pays low rates.

Castles Palmer & Co. Grange Road, etc. Was <sup>marksmen etc.</sup> first class before Mr Palmer died. did not take advantage of the men. There was a dispute on some points. Firm now struck off list of Government contractors.

Messrs Whittard, Cusip & Co. was a first rate firm - light goods line. Has recently transferred all its work to a sweating master and gives him a certain price for <sup>skins</sup> them. May be only an experiment.

Messrs Bevington & Sons Neckinger Mills. There is not a worse firm. All their work is done thro' sweating masters. Used to be a good firm. Were always good to curriers, but they don't dress anything now.

Good. Messrs Dixon & Taylor, Tyer's Gateway, Bermondsey.

Tanners. Most of these men are labourers; only skilled men are the beam men & unhaivers.

Second Interview with Mr G. Oliver 50 Yalding Road.

See pages 8-11

After some general remarks, Mr O said that Mr E Benson of 1 Stork's Road, Bermondsey should be seen. He is President of the National Skimmers Society, works at Bevington & Sons, could give evidence as to their condition & probably introduce us to some. [In writing to Mr B. use Mr O. as an introduction Mr Oliver is going away until the 28th instant but if he can be any use will be glad to see Mr Duckworth].

He then gave a few notes about his own connection with the leather trade. In 1865, he led a successful strike for the tanners' labourers, gaining an increase from 20/- to 22/- per week. Soon after the men obtained another 1/- rise & in a short time saved £200 or £300. They then wanted to fight. Mr O. discouraged the idea but it was adopted & a memorial sent to the masters, asking for an answer in 7 days. Mr Oliver & 4 others were discharged for signing this memorial (he was getting £3 a week) and the movement failed. He then got a labourers' place at £23/- a week but was forced to leave in a fortnight. He was then taken by a piece master, who said his name should not appear but this man was forced to discharge him. After took a Coffee house and the men gave him a benefit which realized £35 -

1865 Strike. Mr W<sup>m</sup> Jeffery, 78 Brighton Road, South Croydon, induced Mr Samuel B arrow to give the 2/- advance & then the other masters had to follow him. The men held a meeting after the strike at which Mr Jeffery presided & was presented with a testimonial by the men. Mr Jeffery should be seen. He knows the trade well especially the market, buying etc. Use my name as an introduction G.H.

After this time the men gradually withdrew from the Union until in 1872 there were only 160 men connected with it. These shared out the £200 odd, which the Union had dissolved. Each man had about 30/- & they gave almost £15.

Many of the tanners labourers are Devonshire or Somersetshire men and in the skilled parts of the trade nearly all are countrymen. This is due to the fact that in the country the men are apprenticed and taught the skilled part of the work. They then come to London and get work as skilled workmen.

Distinction between Curriers & Shavers.

Both work on light goods or split hides & use a double handled knife.
Currier takes the leather from the tanner. He first of all takes off the rough that the tanner has left on; then he greases the skin with dubbin or oil and shaves it again.

The Shaver shaves light goods, Spanish leather, goods dressed in alum & salt. These skins are not greased; they are used for chair coverings and bookbinding. The work is more delicate than that of the currier & the chaver get higher wages.

Grounder does not shave the skin but rubs it with pumice stone and scrapes it with a blunt knife.
(The currier & slavers knives are very keen). Most of this work is on soft skins for glove work - the leather is too soft to shave.

Journeyman Furriers
London Trade Union

Interview with Mr E. G. Fitzpatrick, Secretary.
The Windmill Tavern, Tabernacle St, Finsbury, E.C.

This Society numbers about 150 financial members. The men are very migratory; they go to Paris or New York & there is an understanding that when a man shows his card at the Societies in these places, he is recognised ~~as a man~~ and pays into the Society where he is. On his return to London, he is re-admitted to this Union without entrance fee if he has a clear card.

The Rules (in pigeonhole marked F) are printed in English and German. The Objects of the Union are defined as the raising of funds for the support of Members out of work or on strike "under certain restrictions", the protection and general interest of the Trade & the regulation of the relations between workmen and employers.

The Union is governed by an Executive Council of 17 members, consisting of President, Vice President, English Secretary, Foreign Secretary & 12 Committee men half English & half Foreign. There are also two Trustees and a Treasurer, each of whom must be members.

Contributions - 3<sup>d</sup> per week and 2/6 entrance fee; also 1<sup>d</sup> per month for secretaries. Free after paying 12 months subscriptions. The case of Member 13 weeks in arrears will be brought before the Council & members 18 weeks in arrears <sup>are</sup> excluded.

Out of work Benefit is usually given in a lump sum. The funds for this purpose are raised by means of a concert.

Shop strikes are forbidden except by sanction of the Union obtained by a ballot of the members.

Piecework. There are some shops working piecework, mostly Jewish. Some of these stop some of the workers' earnings for coals, gas, etc - 5%. Have just won a case against Rubenstein for making this illegal deduction. [ Guildhall Aug 2192. See Daily Chronicle ] This was the case of a man working in the shop. The employer has given notice of appeal. This decision does not touch the custom of wholesale houses deducting 2½% or 5% from the agreed price when buying from the Chambermasters.

Fur Sewing Machines. Jewish women have taken to working these machines in the East end. They are used in the West end but there is a greater proportion of hand work in this part of the trade.

[ For other information <sup>see</sup> check Union Sheet. Mr Fitzpatrick is willing to give any information he can. Write to him at the Windmill. He will also get some furriers to give information if wanted ]

Fur skin Dressers Union

Used to consist of 3 branches.

Falling away of the Dyers.

Founded in 1889.

Number of members.

Proportion of Union & Non Union men

T. Sandilands. Secretary to the Fur skin Dressers Union. at the Hospital Tavern, Whitechapel Road. (Private address. 41. Barnby Street West Ham).

The Union used to consist of 3 branches.

1. Dyers 2. Skinners 3. Pelt side.

The Dyers who are the highest paid & most regularly employed in the Trade have fallen away & having been allowed to get 12 months subscription in arrears they were finally expelled.

This society was founded in 1889.

There are 800 men in the trade (including Dyers of whom there are 400).

370. Skinners & Pelt side men belong out of a possible 400.

Among the Skinners there are no non unionist Pelt side - - - - - 30 - - - - -

Union & Non Union work together.

Relations good.

No boards of arbitration

Hours.

Wages.

Unionists & Non U. work together in some shops, the majority of shops do not employ Union men

Relations bet masters & men are good except in the little shops employing 4 or 5 men.

There are no boards of arbitration, in cases of dispute a deputation in each shop is advised & the Union makes allowances where it may be thought that men have been dismissed for having had a hand in a deputation (secretly)

The Fur side (No 2.) work from 8-7. and as later

The Pelt side (No 3) work when they like for the skins are not always ready for them sometimes they are not ready until the afternoon in which case the men will work on till 10 or 11 at night.

Wages. (a list of prices for every species of skin was given).

50/- is a fair average weeks wage in the Busy season which lasts 4 or 5 months for Unskilled (No 2).

The wages of the Pelt side are very uncertain

Regularity

Seasons.

Busy.

Slack.

Overtime.

All are at 1/ work together.

A man may get $1 today & nothing tomorrow in a busy week he gets about 50/- Regularity. For the last 4 years No 2 & 3 have not succeeded in making more than 4 months regular work in the year.

This is owing to the Bering sea trouble
& the scarcity of seal skins.

November to January are always busy some boases may be busy until May but then others will be slack.

Key to November is the slack time.

The end of Oct. or beginning of Nov. begin the busy time because then come the seal skin sales. Every nation sends her buyers here

Overtime is usual among the Pelt side men for reasons given under hours.
but Fur side men never work later than 7. Their hours are from 8-7. this is the customary day.

In slack times all the Fur side & Pelt side men are out of work together, a man might perhaps get a day per week.

Training

Conditions of admission

Mr Sandilands himself has been a builder later plumber & painter's help, he knows men who turn to Painting, Building, Docks costermongers or anything.

The Pelt side is shavers & fleshers shave cross wise, the leather shavers shave straight, so that they cannot interchange.

Men shift from employer to employer according as one house may be busy or not.

Training used to be by apprentices, the Pelt side had to serve 7 years before they were considered to know their business.

The Far side can be learnt with a shorter apprenticeship.

Now none is learning the business, the Union consider there are many more men than there is work for, they will not allow anyone to be apprenticed.

In the ordinary way men are taught by being put to work with experienced men at the age of 18.

All Fur skin dressers over the age of 18 are eligible must be proposed & seconded by 2 members.

Drink.

There is a great deal of drinking especially among the bell side men: among the upholisters there has been a marked decrease thanks to the Union a fact wh. the masters so we I said, acknowledge.

The average heat in the drying room is 170° This makes people wish to drink.
The men must go in & out several times during day, to hang up their skin & see how they are getting on.

Masters buy from merchants.

The masters live by the orders they get from the merchants rather than from the skin which they buy themselves.

a merchant will send his skins to be dressed by one house & then to another to be dyed.

The great secret lies in the dying: only one man in each house is supposed to know it.

One house pays $1000 a year to one man merely for his secret. He retired from business & they bought his plant for $4000 & now pay him the annuity besides (Olsson is the name he gave <sup>(3)</sup>).

The Germans are the chief foot tanners & dyers.
There are a great number of small masters, all Germans & Jews also get over other young Germans called Greeks & pay them
$8 or 10. per week & give them their lodgings.

The following is the process. This is a seal skin rash skin.

1. Blubbered i.e. the skin is rubbed over on the skin fur side with a blunt knife & the blubber is squeezed out.

2. Washed in hot soda water.
3. It is stretched over a large iron hoop

Foot tanners German.

8. hung up to dry in the drying room (run by boys)

9. Soaked in cold water.

10. Is laid hair downwards on floor of hot room to dry the hair only, the pelt must be left damp.

11. The hairs are punched out by blunt-edged knife or beam.

12. Placed in hoop again to dry.

13. Pelt dampened but fur must be left dry.

14. Leathered ie the pelt is battered (ground) & then put into tubs or machines which work the grease in & make pliable leather of the pelt.

Small work is leathered by foot treading in grease & sawdust.

15. shaved (combing).

16. cleansed in working tub by sawdust.

17. dyed

18. shaved to make pelt white where it has become black from the dyer.

Interview with Mr Jos. Roberts, Secretary of The Spanish Leather Dressers Benefit Society
60 Wansay Street, Walworth R<sup>d</sup>

Established 1801 - Registered 1832.

An old Society: originated by men engaged in the Morocco leather finishing, they only being eligible.
It was then known as the Finisters & Shavers Society.
Has since been widened in scope so as to take any person working in the leather trade. Have balance sheets as far back as 1852.

Contributions & Benefits. Used to be 8<sup>d</sup> per week & 1<sup>d</sup> for management or 9<sup>d</sup> in all. At that time they laid by money so quickly that the benefits were raised & the contributions reduced 1<sup>d</sup> per week. Sick pay rose from 16/- to 18/- per week & funeral benefit from £12 to £14 for a 10 years member & over 14 years membership £18. About 1860 when valuation was made compulsory the Society found it was not solvent so contributions were raised to 9<sup>d</sup> again for those under 25 years of age :

|                     |                 |

| 28 "           | 7/-  | 7/-   |
| 31 "           | 10/- | 10/-  |
| 33 "           | 15/- | 15/-  |

Entrance fees were also fixed

Sick Benefit is now 18/- for 26 weeks, 10/- for another 26 weeks and 4/- a week during the time illness continues. A member can only draw full sick pay for one six months in two years. At Deaths members get £12, £14, or £18 according to length of membership. Members wife £12.

Superannuation. Members 60 years of age & with 30 years membership may be allowed 5/- per week but at present no new applications can be entertained until after the valuation in 1896. There are now 6 annuitants. They seem to have been less in regard to this as two of the annuitants are not qualified by age. They were incapacitated by illness & the members voted the annuity out of sympathy - one has drawn it for 6 years already.

Membership has varied. In 1876-170; in 1878-174 (highest now (1893) 120. Difficult to get new members: the young men join the Oddfellows. There are several strong Lodges in Bermondsey.

Funds. average £13. 17. 9 per member. Superannuation and Burial Fund amounts to £1640. Money is invested with National Debt Commissioners & in House property.

Trade Sectional jealousy. In reply to questions, Mr. R said that the various sections of the trade will not mix. In this Society men belonging to most of the branches are found. They come to the Club Room to pay their subscriptions but when they go down stairs to have a drink, they separate into their little groups; shavers with shavers; fumisters with fumisters etc.

Trade is bad & undoubtedly leaving Bermondsey. Many places had been closed entirely of late years (by Cheseannon & Powell) & others were not employing nearly so many hands.
