Character of Population

Interview with Kev J. Wesley Boud, pastor of Kenge Yabernacle, in the Vestry of the Church, Mable Road.

December 6th 1900 - J. A.

M'Boud is a heavily built pleasant faced man, with grey hair and short grey whiskers and beard. A genial kindly soul, he is well pleased with his work, his church and congregation, and has a good word for everybody. He is probably about bo years of age, and coming here from the country 19 years ago, still retains a provincial look.

She has been here long enough to see a considerable change in Benge, the richer classes having removed to Brighton and elsewhere, and their blaces taken by lower middle and working class people, who still increase as houses are built for them. There are one or two small factories (platinum & sauce) but apart from building there is little local industry, and the bulk of the people work elsewhere, a considerable number being gardeners in employed by the richer people of Beckenham. On the alexandra Estate there is a large population of good working class, as also in most of the streets and groves off Maple Road, whilst quite the poorest and roughest are represented in Arpley Road & Vineleigh R' and poor labouring people in S. Slugh's Road, to.

In regard to bhurch and bhapel going, he thinks the district compares favourably with any in S. E. London. A large proportion of all classes attend, but still there are a considerable number who do not go, these consisting mainly of better class artisans. Altendance at a place of worship is on the increase rather than otherwise, and accomodation is provided for sooo more than when he came here, besides several missions. There is practically no opposition—neither theatre, music Hall, for Sunday Band.

The population of the hamlet is 23,000 and it does not grow largely.

His own church consists largely of working heaple, including some of the poorest, and a few well to-do.

and he himself and caretaker, no haid workers, and he himself has no fixed stipend, having always breferred to depend entirely on seat rents. There is a large staff of voluntary workers - including deacons & S.S. Superintendents, 50 teachers, 20 tract distributors & 40 mission workers, as well as managers and committees of Temperance Society, Band of Slope and various other organizations.

M'B. showed me over the buildings, which cover an extensive plot of ground, and leave room for further extension. The new Tabernacle, opened about 6 years ago, gives ample seating room for 1130, and can be made to hold a much larger number. It has a commodious, bright-looking exterior, well adapted for preaching. The seats in the gallery facing the rostrum are free and " are the best in the house " says M B. By the side of it is the old tabernacle, now used as a girls Sunday School, and capable of accomodating 700 or 800. at the back is the boy's school, seating 200 or so, with class rooms behind, which can, when necessary, be thrown into the large room. This room, which is used also as a gymnasium and for the smaller social gatherings has a comfortable ketchen adjoining, and bore signs of the previous nights festivity a picture of the Buildings appears on front hage of magazine inserted herewith, which also has list of services and meetings.

There are also 4 or 5 rooms, some of them smart and comfortable-used by young men's and women's Bible classes, the young men having decidedly the best rooms.

The bhurch membership is over 600, and the average congregation numbers about 1000, being fullest in the morning. Many workers are away in the evening at the Missions, which form quite a feature. They include the Guide Hall Mission, Sove Lane, and the Ovenue Road Mission both founded and run by this bhurch, a children's mission in Woodbine Road, and cottage missions in S. Slugh's Road and in addison Road, norwood. They also help at the block House, the arthur Road, and alexandra Missims - "all come to Penge Tabernacle for workers." The children's service at the bhurch is attended by about 300, and the week night service for adults attracts a fairly good congregation. All round we compare very favourably with any other section here.

Boud-Penge Yabernicle (Bapt)

At the Church Buldings something is going on every day. The Young Men's Bible blasses have about 100 members, and the Young Women's perhaps even more than that; the Mother's Meeting is prosperous, includ? the usual coal club & bonus; and the Slate blub has 300 members; The Band of Slope is large, and the Sunday School has 300 children; (boys and girls separately taught). The children of well to do & poor sit next to each other, but has sometimes thought he ought to provide a separate room for the children of good social standing. However, this is not a difficulty at present.

Rambling and cricket clubs are amongst the other features.

Some of the Mothers who attend the meeting here on, monday, go to the Parochial Hall on Sunday, but there is not the slightest jealousy about that.

Indeed they sometimes send workers to help the Vicar of S. Johns the Parochial Hall, and he in turn comes to their chapel bazaar 4. "Solong as a soul is saved, it does not matter where". So friendly is the feeling that during a recent serious illness.

the Vicar was M' Boud's frequent visitor & spiritual adviser.

No day schools. Good Board Schools have made this quite unnecessary. M' Boud was for 15 years one of the School managers, and sheaks highly of the work done-good evening classes, v. Now Penge has a brand new School Board of its own, and takes over the Board Schools all who date, and fully equipped, in which they are very fortunate, he thinks.

Last year M. B. made over 1000 visits, many of them to heaple outside his own congregation. He is often sent for when death threatens. The tract distributors also visit and are provided with if emergency lickets, which they may give if they think necessary.

M. B. professes to keep a watchful eye on these lickets he insists that the tradesmen shall always write on the back of each ticket exactly what was supplied and he or a trusted church officer visits where it seems needful. In some cases they give a little pension.

About £100 a year is spent in charity. He keeps in Scripture reader, and is careful not to interfere with cases which are under the care of another Church.

Mi B was one of those who administered locally the Mansion Slouse Unemployed Fund, some years ago, & he claims that their system was so good that they were able to return several hundred pounds of the Grant made to them. All the blergy & ministers were on it, and the friendly shirit of exchanging information has continued, so that overlapping is avoided.

He has found out that the most real poverty is that which hides itself & distrusts all pleading now.

In addition to the poor fund of each bhurch, there is a large Philanthropic Society, which does very good work. The bhurches subscribe 9 send cases which need particular help. The bhurches have no central organization for cooperating. Each too busy in his own place to be able to attend meetings.

Under the new act, Penge is separated from Sewisham and has now a bouncil of its own from which M" B. hopes much. They have got a splended body of men on it.

The New act has also had a good effect on Penge because the PHouses here have now to close at 11, instead of 12.30. Friends have remarked to him that they do not know what has come to the place lately. Its so quest and orderly at night. A lot of people used to come from broydon (where they close at 11) to get drink here; going home by the late theatre train, and could be heard noisily making their way home, and sometimes getting into trouble with the Police.

Hats for 2 families are being run up now 4 are taken before they are ready. Rents are rising, which with increasing price of provisions, is rather a serious thing to the large number of people with small annuities who live here.

RETROSPECT.

The Anniversary and Harvest Thanksgiving Services at Guide Hall, on October 14th and 15th, was a season of much blessing to all, and will not soon be forgotten. The abundance of fruits and flowers bore evidence of the continued progress of the work amongst the people of Norwood, and the increased interest of friends from all direc-

The Afternoon Special Service for Children was conducted by Mr. A. E. Hambrook, and in the evening by Messrs. H. Smithers and D. Edwards. Every available space was used to accommodate the people, and many had to remain standing the whole of the Service. On Monday evening a Public Meeting was held, presided over by Mr. Hugh Beech, who spoke of the encouraging results of the efforts of the young men of his class under the guidance of a faithful God. Mr. Harvey gave an interesting and helpful address to the children, and was followed by an earnest and impressive address by Mr. Mead. The Bible Class String Band assisted at the Services, and the children of the Sunday School rendered good services by their sweet singing.

The gifts of fruit and vegetables were freely distributed in Love Lane, also some fruit was sent to the Croydon Hospital.

H. SMITHERS.

On Sunday, Nov. 4th, five were received into the fellowship of the Church.

Anniversary Services.

Sunday, October 21st, Rev. T. I. Stockley, of Hendon, was the preacher, and his visit was very much enjoyed. Wednesday, October 24th, "the great day of the feast," commenced with a Prayer and Praise Meeting at 6 a.m., and a large number gathered at that early hour. Punctually to the minute the Pastor and Officers commenced the Service, which was to continue through the whole day, Miss Boud presiding with her usual ability at the organ. The supplications were brief, earnest and to the point; we felt the Master was with us preparing our hearts for further and larger blessings. We found the old promise true, "But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

At 10 a.m. the Pastor was in his Vestry to receive the thank-offerings from a loving, loyal people. The first to present their offerings were a group of bright-faced Sunday School scholars. God grant they may grow up to be successful workers in His Church. All day long the dear friends came with their offerings, and as the Lord of the treasury loked down from His throne in glory His leart was made glad.

At 4 p.m. the Rev. C. Spurgeon, of Greenwich (who had spent the day with his sainted mother at Westwood), preached with remarkable power from Num. ix., 16. The sermon will never be forgotten, the aroma of it abides with us still. May God long spare His faithful servant to proclaim the "glad tidings."

A very large company partook of tea in the Boys' Schoolroom, which had been tastefully decorated by loving hands and willing hearts. The arrangements for the Tea were in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Smart, assisted by a number of ladies and gentlemen. The Public Meeting commenced at 7 p.m.

The Pastor gave out the hymn, "All people that on earth do dwell," and then introduced the Chairman, A. C. Jennings, Esq. Deacon Chaytor read the Scriptures, and Deacon Dallman led us to the Throne of Grace. The Chairman called upon Deacon T. B. Ashley to read the report, which was a very encouraging one. Our various agencies and societies are healthy and doing good and useful work. The hand of our God has been with us for good. Our Pastor has been laid aside from his loved work for two months; we rejoice in his presence with us. During the ten months 62 have been received into the fellowship of the Church. The Chairman struck a high note in his address, which was listened to with rapt attention, and brought us into the soul-refreshing presence of our Master and Lord. The Revs. F. Monti, W. Cornelius Jones, and G. Beesley Austin, gave us a rich feast of sanctified wit, heavenly wisdom and gracious encouragement. Never before have we listened to such powerful utterances, which roused and enthused our souls. Deacon Chew submitted a short financial statement, which thrilled our hearts with joy. The result of the 19th anniversary exceeds £166. Deacon A. Coulson proposed, in an effective speech, and Deacon Hugh Beech seconded, a hearty vote of thanks to the Chairman, speakers, and the ladies and gentlemen who had so ably managed the tea. The Pastor, in putting the resolution to the meeting, said he was amazed at the liberality of the friends connected with Penge Tabernacle. Last March they promised over £130 for the 20th Century Fund. In May they raised over £300 by their bazaar, and the sum of £ 166 was a magnificent sum for their anniversary. He heartily thanked them all. The resolution was put to the meeting and carried with hearty applause. We were sorry that affliction and absence from home prevented the attendance of Deacons Croaker, A. Ashley and J. Fidler, but they remembered us, and were commended to God in our closing prayer.

CHAPTER VI.

THE ELSMERE CREST.

" And thus the deeds we do Outlive our little day; And passing all the ages through An influence convey."

without one missing link to weaken it. The artist had known him, and as Gerald Bruce Doris had himself exhibited but laggard interest; yet, from a stood with him on the old wishing-stone. sense of duty, he constrained himself to master the technicalities of his new position.

But through all the confusion and bewilderment that environed him with the assumption of his fresh dignities, there ran one fine golden thread of thought that interwove itself with all else, and was ever most intimately present with him. . It was the strangeness of the coincidence that should have proved the Doris Kendal of his dreams to be the proposed heiress of Lord Elsmere's money.

Why had he never gauged the first possibility of the fact before? And yet, when Bruce came to analyse the matter, there was scarcely room for him to wonder or to blame himself. He had heard no facts concerning the rich unknown relative who had suddenly stolen the sweetest flower from Glen Lyddon; he had heard neither name nor residence, and why should even his wildest dreams have suggested any connection between this wealthy patroniser of the obscure minister's family and his own aristocratic and stately uncle? The matter was something to rouse the young man's most sensitive delicacy. If Doris knew that it was he, Gerald Bruce, who had stepped between her and that golden fortune, how could he possibly cherish the faintest hope of keeping her friendship? And, to confess the truth, Doris Kendal's friendship was far more to him than the new title which, as yet, sat so strangely upon him. He must move in the matter; he must make some overture; some offer to the minister, perhaps, on behalf of the daughter which could not offend the delicate honour of far heart of South Africa-into the wilds of either. But how could he do it? Bruce tortured himself with vain suggestions; then suddenly resolved that he would not humiliate himself or them by such a proceeding. He loved Doris, and why should he not take the course of any honourable man and lover, and straightway seek her and URIOUSLY enough there was no tell her of his love? He surely need not flaunt his difficulty in substantiating Gerald new title in those first happy moments of meeting. Bruce's claim to the Elsmere title He surely might meet her for that little blissful and estates. The family lawyer moment as Gerald Bruce, the artist friend. What did it matter that something more unquestionable evidence in the young heir's favour, was added to it? As Gerald Bruce Glen Lyddon

> The old wishing-stone! He felt a warm flush dye his cheek as he remembered the wish he had wished there. Would it ever come true?

> The day following the crystallisation of that resolve found him at Glen Lyddon, and walking up the road which led to Pastor Kendal's house. Bruce had decided to do his very utmost to win Doris Kendal's promise to marry him, and, after that all-important matter was settled, to set to work with his best energies to find the true owner of Grantly's belt and its precious contents.

It was summer-time again at Glen Lyddon. The old tor was beautiful as ever in its lonely grandeur-Bruce thought the scene before him as perfect as any his eyes had rested upon during his distant travels. The minister's picturesque house was still picturesque.

Eureka was standing at the door, and the smile with which she recognised the tall figure in tourist attire, walking up the garden path, was exhilarating. If Eureka welcomed him, might not Doris welcome him too? Bruce felt his pulses throbbing more quickly at the hope which shaped itself in his heart.

"Mr. Bruce, how pleased father will be to see you!" cried Eureka, extending her hand. "We thought you had forgotten all your Glen Lyddon friends. It is so long since we heard about you."

"If my thoughts could have assured you to the contrary, you would never have doubted me, Miss Eureka," he said, eagerly. "I have been into the Eureka looked pleased.

"Thank you -" he hesitated, then followed her into the little hall. He would speak to Mr. Kendal -speak to him about Doris, and then see Doris afterward.

"Is your father well again, Miss Eureka? News can travel even to South Africa, you know; and some that I heard grieved me."

"Better, but not well. But Doris is at home, and father will soon be young again now."

"I trust your sister is well-at home once more, you say?" Bruce blushed at his own prevarication.

"Yes to both questions," Eureka laughed, softly. "Oh, you don't know what it is to have Doris back, Mr. Bruce."

"I can easily imagine," he said.

"Our uncle died suddenly, and things all turned out very differently from what we supposed," Eureka went on, with pretty confidence. "A real heir suddenly appeared; and as uncle died without leaving a will, of course this young man could claim everything and Doris nothing."

"He must be a very disagreeable young man," the artist said, feeling hot all over. Why had he done such a mad thing as to run the gauntlet of personal criticism?

"On the contrary, we think him a most delightful young man," answered Eureka, calmly. "If he had not come forward to represent the house of Elsmere we should not have had Doris home again."

Miss Eureka?"

"It is worth the loss of two fortunes," she shone on her little white finger. replied, with a gleam in her sunny eyes.

The artist went forward to the well-remembered study with an elasticity of step which was quite man's hand warmly, and it seemed that Bruce would not have to regret the heartiness of his welcome.

Eureka, lingering about the garden, wondered why Doris should be so long away from home that morning. She had gone to the old tor; but what a pity she did not hasten back. If only she knew!

Bruce came through the hall again and out, down the garden path. His face was flushed, and -was it her fancy?-a little agitated.

"Your sister has gone to her old haunt, has she not? Shall I find her on the old tor, Miss Eureka? Your father has given me permission to try and find her."

All at once there came a revelation to Eureka.

Kimberley and Barolong, and a hundred places know that I can give you permission to find her,

He stopped, flashed a look upon her, and clasped her hand for an instant. "Wish me all success in "You will come in and see father? He is in his my quest, Miss Eureka," he said, softly, and was > Doris sat motionless on the wishing-stone. Her hat was thrown aside, and one cheek rested on her hand. Someone sprang to her side with eager steps, and, half bending, half kneeling before her, looked into her bewildered face.

"I thought-I thought-you were a very long way from here, Mr. Bruce."

"Then you have thought of me?" He drew out his pocket-book, and, opening it, laid a faded bit of lichen on her lap. "I gathered that from this old stone nearly a year ago, Miss Kendal, and I wished as I gathered it. You were with me then, you are with me now. Doris, may I tell you what I wished?"

Her coloured fluttered bewitchingly. "I ought to have gone home long ago," she said. "Eureka will think me lost. Won't you come and see father, Mr. Bruce?"

But he would not let her pass him. "Presently. Your father sent me here; your sister was not sure she would let me come; but I have only one purpose in visiting Glen Lyddon. Please sit down Something in his tone, something new and grave and imperative, made Doris yield. She sat down where she had been sitting before; and the bit of lichen lay on her lap. But only the shy birds heard what was said on the wishing-stone upon the brow of the old tor that morning; only they heard-yet when Doris went home the artist went "And that is quite worth the loss of a fortune, with her; and a diamond circlet-some of the Elsmere diamonds, only Doris did not know it-

There was no pretentious ceremony in the introduction of Bruce to his new relationship with the minister's family. He was taken right into their contagious. Pastor Kendal gripped the young midst at once, and made to feel that he was one of them. Pastor Kendal and his wife were not accustomed to do things half-heartedly. The artist found himself sitting down with them to their simple mid-day meal as naturally as if he had been accustomed to join them in that way all his life; and yet, looking at Doris, he realised that everything was delightfully, ecstatically new. .

"I had a strange encounter while at Port Elizabeth," he said, after the cloth had been removed, and they all sat chatting and enjoying their fruit. "More correctly the strangest part of it occurred at Barolong, though; for the sequel came to me there. A man who had known my father intimately, recognised me by my striking resemblance to him, a day or two after I landed; and "Oh yes, Doris is there," she said. "But I do not we found the world so small a place that a little later we knocked up against one another at Barolong, and there he claimed acquaintance with me. We lost sight of each other, however, in the roving life of those queer, uncultured regions; until one day a Kaffir brought me a dirty note from the poor fellow, who was dying of the fever some miles up the river. I went to him and did what I could, but there was really nothing to be done. There was only time to hear his last messages for friends in the old country, and to receive from his and, knowing your connection with the family, I hand a charge which has caused me more anxiety and embarrassment than any other matter that has come to me through life. Mr. Kendal, I want your help and advice. Poor Grantly had accumulated a large quantity of diamonds, and had followed the usual method of carrying them for safety in his digger's belt. He gave the belt and contents into my care, with the solemn charge to see that all were delivered to a certain old-time friend, whose name and address, he said, were in an old pocket-book in his bag. His brain and memory and speech failed him at that point. He died after a few hours' of semicoma; and when I searched the pocketbook I could find no information answering to the story which he had, in part, told me. To search out some clue to the rightful owner of the belt hastened my return to England."

The minister looked keenly interested in the artist's story, and Doris equally so. It was only Eureka who noticed that while Bruce was speaking her mother had paled; and that a strained, intent look had come into her eyes. It was when Grantly's name was mentioned.

"Can you not in some way trace the family or locality by what the poor fellow was able to tell you?" asked Pasto Kendal, thoughtfully.

"That is now my solitary hope. I wonder --" Bruce paused, abruptly, as if a sudden light had broken a cleft through the darkness of the mystery -"I wonder if the lawyer could help to untwist

"What lawyer?" questioned Doris.

Bruce coloured in confusion. "It is like this," he said, slowly. "Poor Grantly told me his friend was a niece, or grand-niece of Lord Elsmere; > am half relying on you to help to find her. I think - I am sure, indeed. from what he saidthat it was an old love-story; and it must have been a very sweet one to have lingered with him all those years. It appealed to me very strongly,"he glanced at Doris. "The maiden name of the lady was Aileen Elsmere; I would give a thousand pounds to be able to ascertain her marriage name, and whether she is still living and where."

He looked up in surprise and alarm. Eureka, who had been sitting very quiet, watching her mother, slipped round the table and went to Mrs. Kendal's side; but the minister had also been seized with similar anxiety, and was by his wife's chair as soon as Eureka. Mrs. Kendal put out her hand as if in appeal, and he took it lovingly in his own and held it close; but neither spoke. Eureka was silent also. It was left for Doris to tell the cause of the agitation. She leaned forward, her colour fluctuating, her lips tremulous.

"Mrs. Kendal put out her hand as if in appeal, and he took it lovingly in his own."

"Oh! how very strange. Why, mother's name is Aileen; and she was an Elsmere before she married father. Uncle Elsmere was angry about it because father was not rich, but -"

Her startled sentence was never concluded. Bruce had sprang up, and was at Mrs. Kendal's side; his face glowing, his whole manner trium-

"Is it possible? I never thought life could be half as delightful as it is proving itself to-day! Mrs. Kendal, you have been a very rich woman ever since I have known you, with such a husband and such daughters. I don't know that diamonds can make a great difference to you, still I suppose they are worth something; and I never gave anybody else a present that afforded me such joy as the present I shall shortly hand over to yousoft little hand that wore his diamond circlet, and carried it to his lips.

As he did so the linen cuff on the other wrist caught in the gold chain attached to his watch, and became entangled with an antique seal which was fastened to it. It was the seal bearing the Elsmere crest. Doris turned, and the familiar crest at once attracted her attention. She stood transfixed with astonishment. What right had Gerald Bruce to wear the family crest of the sent a sudden inspiration to her brain.

All at once a multitude of small bewildering, puzzling details seemed explained. Was not Bruce a family name with the Elsmeres? Was not the young unknown heir just the age of her artistlover? Had he not been away into the far heart of South Africa? Why had Gerald Bruce never told her of his parentage and friends? Doris put her hand to her brow. She was feeling a misty unreality stealing over everything; the faces around her grew distant and more distant; until, as in a dream, she felt Bruce draw her gently towards him and clasp her hands in his with caressing touch.

"Doris, oh! Doris, forgive me," he whispered. "I would not have parted from you to-night withto marry me lest you would not listen to what I guardianship?" had to say. Oh, Doris dear, I feel so like a stealing your promised fortune from you; but if book in silent scrutiny. you love me will it not be sweeter still to take it back again as my gift to you?"

"But I cannot understand," faltered Doris. "If you, for you ought to marry someone very rich and beautiful and clever."

"I certainly shall marry someone rich and beautiful and clever if I marry Doris Kendal," answered Bruce, with eager assurance. "And if I do not marry her I shall not marry at all. Doris, can you ever forgive me for taking your fortune?"

CIUNES TRAMED.

Then there flashed into her eyes such a light as Bruce had never seen there before. It was like an illumined soulshining through the polished mirrors.

"Forgive! If you did but know? It was the loss of my golden fortune that led me to seek and find the gold that never perishes. The night my uncle Elsmere died I saw how vain was all the glitter that men call wealth. It did not satisfy him. He had nothing to hold by, nothing to give him rest and peace and safety, until he just took God at His word; and then he died-at rest? God never but the one that is here!" and he lifted the spoke to me, also, that night-afterward; when I was alone. Life has been changed since then. I wanted you to know."

> They had left the others and were standing a little apart by the window. Bruce felt her words thrilling his soul.

"And I wanted to tell you, dear, how that, far away in dreary Barolong, the same God spoke to me, and I gave myself to Him to serve Him for ever. I saw poor Grantly die, as you say, just 'at rest.' He, too, had laid hold upon God; but it was Elsmeres? Her breath came quickly; she lifted at the last failing hour, when despair had almost her startled eyes to his, and what she saw there kept him away. And I vowed then that I would give God my best years, and not wait until my life had slipped from me, and I had nothing but sins and wasted hours to offer. Shall we serve Him together, Doris?"

> "Come, children," said Pastor Kendal, "let us sing a song of praise. Doris, my child, sit down and play my favourite anthem, 'Bless the Lord, oh my soul,' and we will try and help you sing it."

> When the song of praise had swelled and ceased in the minister's home, the happy little group still lingered together. Presently Bruce drew an old and much worn pocket-book from an inner pocket of his coat. It was the one which he had searched through and through so vainly when

"This belonged to poor Grantly," he said, out telling you the truth about myself; but I was gently. "If it could speak what secrets it might so afraid to let you know before you had promised reveal. Mr. Kendal, may I leave it in your

He had opened it with lingering, careful fingers supplanter, and yet the fault is not mine. It seems as he spoke, and was turning over the few papers. as if, in a way, you must almost hate me for Doris put out her hand, curiously bending over the

"See," she said, softly, "Bruce, what is this? Why should a paper be here?" And she drew a folded strip from between the torn silken lining and you are Lord Elsmere why have we always known the cover. Bruce held his breath. He had never seen you as Gerald Bruce? And-and I cannot marry that paper. What if it should be the missing name for which he had so often and so vainly searched? "Open it, Doris," he said.

And as Doris spread it open on the table that all might see, they read together, evidently in Grantly's handwriting :-

Tables-Excellent and Otherwise.

By MARCUS DRAYTON.

OUND tables, square tables, short tables, long tables, rough tables, polished tables of these articles of furniture there seems an endless variety; one as different from the other as the proverbial chalk and cheese. Yet there is one thing common to them all, and that is that they are tables.

Tables, besides being so varied in size, shape and quality, have also very various uses. There is the neat little writing-table, the serious-looking chess-table, with its mosaic top, and the dinner table, all having their own special use. But in the short space at my disposal, let me draw your existence and some of the "tables" we are acquainted with.

For instance, how some of us love to sit at the little chess-table of argumentativeness, and indulge our fancies in a heated argument just for the sake of doing so, simply to be contrary, whether it hurts anyone else's feelings or not. Now this chess-table of needless argument is all covered with awkward little square corners that will prevent us getting on with our life's work smoothly, for where we come across corners in our path, there we have to slacken our pace. Now get up from the patchy chess-table of needless argument, and strive to work the more and argue

Then, alas, how fond some are of the dinner table when it is well laden with black bottles, with glaring labels on them, or dainty wineglasses with something stronger than lemonade in them. Yes, strong drink to thousands means "Falling," but to millions it is a "Failing." Have you ever realised what a little difference there is between those two words, "Failing" and "Falling"? How easily it is to alter "Failing" into "Falling"-just a touch of the pen added to the top of the "i" in "Failing" turns it into "Falling."

Alas, how many forget that, when they take their glass of ale or stout at dinner! Beware, lest with you the word "Failing" is turned into "Falling." Think not yourself secure from falling till you have joined the ever-increasing ranks of the Total Abstainers.

To that one who has already to acknowledge that the wine-table spells "Falling" I would say: You are not sufficient of yourself to conquer this enemy, you must place yourself in the hands of Table and learn of Him more and more.

the dear Saviour of mankind, and you will find His great Strength a substitute for your own poor weakness. Now give up the wine-table, and cross over to the pledge-table, I beseech of you, and God will give you strength to be true to yourself and to Him. +++ +++ +++

But I must hasten on to speak of some other tables. What a fascination a billiard-table or a card-table exercises over the lives of many, young and old alike. There are many, alas, that can see nothing harmful in gambling. Apart from the sin of the act, a man who gambles has neither time attention to a comparison between our human nor inclination to think of his Maker, or of his duty to Him. No, the senses are deadened, and the question of the loss of his own immortal soul seems of less importance to him than losing sixpence at a game of "poker" or "whist." Reader, is that your estimate of the value of your soul? I trust not.

> "Knowest thou the value of a soul immortal? Behold the evening glory, worlds on worlds! Amazing pomp! Redouble this amaze; Ten thousand add, and twice ten thousand more: Then weigh the whole; one soul outweighs them

> And calls the great magnificence of intelligent creation-poor!"

> And if you value your soul at its true worth you will no longer linger at the gaming-tables, or pander to the gambling spirit even in its minor

But there are many other kinds of tables besides those that I have mentioned, just as there are many forms of sin that I have not space to speak of here. The individual knows best what is his or her weak point, and it is only as they trust in Christ as their personal Saviour that they can hope to conquer in the fight with uncleanness.

But there is p ssive sinning as well as active sinning, and that is just as wicked. God sent His own Son into the world as a sacrifice for our sins, and if we do not accept Him we are guilty of the sin of rejecting God's means of salvation. Then do not let us be indifferent and careless about these matters, but accept the salvation offered by Christ, taking His hand, and letting Him lead us into green pastures, and beside the still waters of Christian blessedness. Then shall we be able to experience that fullness of joy that belongs only to the Christian who is able to sit at his Lord's charmed lives, for the dangers to which they are exposed are very great indeed, even taking into account the perfection and precision of their weapons. Well may they need to be men with cool heads.

When Mr. Selous, the world-renowned hunter, was hunting in Africa, late in the seventies, he and his companions had come up with a herd of wild elephants, some of which they shot for the tusks, tossed horse and rider

JUNTERS of big game need frequently to bear recognised was "a very strong smell of elephants," which was scarcely to be wondered at seeing that the great beast was standing over him, pressing him down to the ground with her huge body.

The elephant was, however, not doing him serious injury, but keeping him close prisoner. By dint of struggling he got loose, and, turning over, saw the hind legs of the beast behind him, and knew in a moment what had happened. Seeing him on the ground when he was thrown ivory and meat. He himself had accounted for from the saddle, the elephant had charged down four, and had wounded the fifth-a fine cow-when upon him, but had overshot the mark. Lowering he perceived she was about to charge. He was on her head with intent to reach him with her tusks, horseback, putting a fresh cartridge in his breach- she had just missed him, and driven them deep loader, when on she came. The horse was tired into the earth, dropping on her knees as she did out, and could not evade the furious monster, so, and holding him prisoner in the angle made > by her body. From this position, however, he was able to wriggle back to freedom and safety.

The horse had a bad wound, but Mr. Selous got off with a bruise over the eye, and the skin scraped off one side of his chest. "This," he says, "was all that was the matter with me, and a most wouderful escape, I think it was."

The late Mr. Oswald, the friend of Livingstone, had two very narrow escapes from death by rhinoceroses.

On returning to camp one day he saw a white rhinoceros standing close to the path. Being in need of meat he fired and wounded the animal, which made off into the bush. As it did so he gave it the second barrel, when he was surprised to see the animal turn round and make towards him. Still he waited, thinking that the rhinoceros must fall. He waited, however, too long, for the wounded beast came on, and his horse being transfixed with terror, did not move, but the rhinoceros did the moving for him, for the wounded beast drove his horn under the horse's flank, and sent horse and rider spinning upward. As Mr. Oswald fell the edge of his stirrup took off a great patch of his scalp. Strange to say, after foot. On this occasion he was charged by a wounded rhinoceros, and again tossed, this time with much more injury to himself. After the great beast struck him he remembered sailing through the air, and then lost consciousness till he found himself sitting on his horse, which a native was denly hurled to the ground by a great tiger, who slowly as in a dream, and met some men coming towards his little party carrying a litter, which had served him as a bedstead in his wagon. In reply to his questioning they said they had heard he had been killed by a rhinoceros, and were coming to bring back his body. Then, mechanically, his hand dropped to his thigh, and feeling his clothes were wet, looked at his hand, and found it covered with blood, and The tige "so numbed was all sensation that he actually dabbled down to the feeling any pain." From this wound it took him over a month in bed to recover.

Our other illustration pictures a narrow escape from a tiger, in which there is just a spice of comedy. Some villagers were at work irrigating their fields with water drawn from a large stone-lined tank, by means of a "pitratta." This contrivance consists of a large upright post, with a cross-beam at the top-in fact a kind of see-saw, with buckets at each end; and the men, by walking backwards and forwards, dipped the water up in the buckets alternately, while another native would empty them into the irrigation trough. While doing this latter a tiger sprang upon the native from the bushes near by. The man had rushed up and dealt the tiger a fatal blow.

this the beast made off. Mr. Oswald, although just emptied the bunket, and as the tiger was badly wounded, mounted a fresh pony, followed within a few feet of him, placed the metal bucket in pursuit, and shot the rhinoceros, securing his between himself and the beast, and then, in his fright, left go of it. The tiger grasped the bucket, His second experience occurred while he was on lost its balance, and fell forward into the tank, the natives casting heavy stones at it till it was drowned. They then hauled the body out, and secured the Government reward for its skin.

While walking through a jungle with a Hindu, Mr. Farquharson, of the India Civil Service, was sud-leading, while another was sprang right carrying his gun. He rode on over his head. He, however, made for a tree standing grasped by, managing to the bucket, climb into its lost its balance, very slender and fell froward into the tank branches before bone in a deep gash, eight inches long, without the tiger saw where he went. Just then a covey of partridges rose screaming from the upper branches of the tree, and the tiger, walking a few paces away, being attracted by the noise, followed their flight with his eyes. At that moment Farquharson fired, rolling the tiger over; but the beast was far from dead, for with a supernatural effort it sprang at him and drove its great claw into one of his legs that was dangling from the tree, tearing the flesh from knee to ankle. As the brute made as though he would spring again, Farquharson placed his rifle into the tiger's throat and fired; but even that did not kill him, and Farquharson, falling forward fainting from loss of blood, would have been killed had not a friend at that moment

THE minister of a working-class Church, writing to The Baptist Times and Freeman, hear of another instance of sacrifice for the Twentieth Century Fund, one as beautiful in its way as any I have come across. This morning a schoolboy, eleven years old, came to me with half-a-sovereign for the Fund. It was his mother that brought me the first 10s. subscribed at my Church. She still earns a very meagre subsistence at the wash-tub, but she does not begrudge her boy's gift. He has put by 21d. a week for a year out of his Saturday's earnings as an errand boy. When one thinks what a fortune 10s. is to a boy of his years, and particularly to a poor boy who has to earn every penny of it, the gift assumes its right proportions."

SAD news has been received from China in a telegram addressed by the Rev. J. P. Bruce, B.A., to Mr. A. H. Baynes, Secretary of the Baptist Missionary Society. It tells of the martyrdom of the Hsin Chou band of Baptist missionaries, together with Mr. and Mrs. Underwood, of Tai-Yuan-Fu. THE Free Churches Twentieth Century Pledge Signing Crusade, initiated by the Baptist Total Abstinence Association, was commenced in real earnest on Temperance Sunday, Nov. 25th, when thousands of ministers of all denominations preached Temperance sermons, or made special references to the Crusade. In the Sunday Schools, too, the Temperance lesson arranged for in the international list afforded the teachers and superintendents an opportunity of urging the young people to totally abstain from strong drink. It is hoped that Baptists will rally to the support of the Crusade in hearty and enthusiastic fashion, and that such an impetus will be given to the Temperance movement as shall ensure the shaking of drinkdom to its foundations. The Baptists were well to the front in the commencement of the Band of Hope movement. May they take as full a share in this effort to free our country. should order their copies at once.

AMONGST the inaugural meetings of the Pledge Signing Crusade is one at the Metropolitan says: "I am sure you will be glad to Tabernacle on Dec. 12th, when Pastor Thomas Spurgeon will preside, at 7.30 p.m., and addresses will be given by the Rev. J. Monro Gibson, D.D. (Presbyterian), Miss Docwra (Friend), and Rev. H. Elvet Lewis (Congregationalist). Londoners are taking the work in hand splendidly, and there can be no doubt that the newly-built Tabernacle will be well filled upon the 12th.

A monthly organ, The Crusader, has also been issued (16 pp., crown 4to.), at 3s. per 100, carriage free. It is hoped that this publication will be the means of awakening the interest of non-abstainers in the movement, as well as keeping the Temperance workers in touch with the Crusade. AT a meeting of the Session of the London Baptist Social Union, held at the Holborn Restaurant on Nov. 9th, Mr. Charles E. Smith, organist at Regent's Park Chapel, read an excellent paper on "Congregational Psalmody," illustrating the same with selections from the new "Baptist Hymnal," by the assistance of a capital double quartet. Mr. Smith complained that in many Churches little attention was paid to the position of the organ, and that the conditions under which the choir was expected to sing were frequently not such as to lead to good results. He said the New Baptist Hymnal was the first book of Psalmody which the Baptists had possessed for thirty years, and he evidently thought it an excellent work.

is the glorifying of Christ. Each Person of the Trinity is found glorifying not Himself, but another; and it is in the Church this mutual coronation takes place. Christ glorified the Father, the Spirit glorifies Christ. His one purpose and work is to be ever making the glorified Christ more glorious in the eyes of the Church.

I think I have said enough to indicate my position. Our Churches are only Holy Ghost ones as they faithfully represent the relationship of the Spirit to the whole body. What He is in the whole

He should be in each part.

Alas! how grievous often is the contrast. In God's Church He is Sovereign Ruler; working according to His own will. In too many of our Churches He is but little known even by name, and in all our Churches too little known in person. He, as real and true a being as our Father or Saviour, is too often diminished to an influence and then described by an impersonal pronoun. No Church can be said to be a Holy Ghost one where He is degraded into an "it." The smallest straw will show the set of the wind, and "it," as descriptive of the Spirit of the Lord, tells nothing of lowly homage to a Sovereign Ruler. My own deep conviction is that our Churches to-day are suffering in a hundred different ways, all because the Gracious Spirit is practically ousted from the position that is His right. The spirit of the age is the practical ruler, while the Spirit of God is the Nominal Lord. A Holy Ghost Church will con. sult Him before doing anything. She will not draw her plans, pass her resolutions, transact her business, and then ask that His gracious influence "may follow all that she has done." No; the Holy Ghost Church will ask Him for the plans, will lowly wait on Him to know His resolves, and seek to be allowed to do His business. The Spirit will not be the servant, expected to carry out the resolutions of the Church, but the Church will be the girded slave, glad to do as the Lord shall bid. Until the government of the Holy Ghost is fully and practically acknowledged in the Churches, they may be pleasant, religious clubs, they may be centres of smart business transactions, they may be abodes of social life, but Holy Ghost Churchesnever. Our heart longs for a day when in all our Churches it will be as natural to say, "We must ask what the Holy Ghost thinks," as it is now natural to say, "What is the opinion of the leading

In a Holy Ghost Church the Word of God will. likewise occupy the highest possible position of honour. The Spirit of Christ will ever lead, as it led Him, into the profoundest veneration for Holy dwells, this ambition ever burns.

IN THE Church the Holy Ghost's constant work Scripture. As the Spirit only guides and teaches by the Word, the Church of which we speak will listen to His voice whenever Bibles are opened. Whatever was the attitude of Jesus towards Scripture, will be the attitude of the members of this Church, for the Holy Ghost can never guide into views opposite to those of Christ. He leads into the mind of Christ.

To Him it was enough, "It is written," and He considered that should be sufficient for His hearers. With Him "Scripture could not be broken." From end to end He has placed His seal of Royal assent upon the Book. He has done so in accordance with one great part of His mission. "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the

In a Holy Ghost Church, therefore, no part of the service will possess more charm than the reading of the Word. It will be no hurried exercise, chiefly useful as affording time for the choir to arrange the music books for the next anthem. In a Holy Ghost Church every member will bring his Bible. Indeed, the idea of not bringing the Book will no more enter the worshipper's head than coming to the sanctuary without his boots or hat. The only sermon enjoyed in this Church will be one that opens up, not hangs up the Word. Scripture references will be expected, and the more the discourse partakes of a Bible study, the better it will be enjoyed. The preacher's sermon will be accompanied throughout with the musical rustle of Bible leaves, as passage is quoted to illumine passage. All the way through it will prove true: "In Thy light shall we see light."

In a Holy Ghost Church every member will come to learn more of the Word. He has come to hear the Book talk, or rather to hear God talk to him out of the Book. It is so essentially the Word of the Lord to him that, like the members of the early Church, he says, "Who by the mouth of Thy servant David has spoken." The writers are but Jehovah's mouth. The voice is His. No Church where the Bible is not enthroned in the hearts of the members is a Holy Ghost one. It may be a Church impregnated with the spirit of the age, but not a Church saturated by the Spirit of God. Where He reigns, Scripture is His sceptre. The measure in which Holy Scripture is revered and loved is the measure in which a Church can rightly lay claim to the title of our paper. According to our line of argument, a Holy Ghost Church must also be one that has no ambition but the glory of Jesus. This the blessed Spirit is ceaselessly seeking, and by a hundred different methods effecting. Where He

of the Church, "that Christ may be magnified, whether it be by life or death." "Worthy of the neighbourhood" will die out before "worthy of Him." "The leading Church of the locality" will be unthought of in the delight of being "a faithful witness unto Him." "An ornament to the denomination" will never cross the mind pre-occupied with the desire of being a little gem for Him. All pride of numbers, position, purse, light, and leading will be absent-swallowed up in the great hunger for Christ's glory. In this Church no selfish inducements will be held out to induce the members to give; no paltry arguments of "maintaining its reputation," will be heard; no jealousy of other Churches lest they outstrip them in the race, will be known. The one all-prevailing argument will be, "it will glorify Him." This will provide everything.

The Spirit being a Sprit of Supplication, it follows that a Holy Ghost Church will be an intensely prayerful one. Here is a test so true and searching that it is generally disliked. The prayer meeting is the true index of the Holy Ghost life of a Church. As spirituality declines, the gatherings for prayer wither. It must be so, unless the people love to come as "martyrs," for delight in prayer is a purely spiritual taste. Where the Holy Ghost lives and reigns, a gathering for prayer is the most attractive one that can be announced. Where He abides not, it is the most melancholy of the notices. "Only the prayer meeting," is a sentence that damns any Church. In a Holy Ghost Church there will be no handful at a prayer meeting, and a crowded audience at a concert. The prayer meeting will not be considered the one meeting that is to be knocked on the head to make room for some lighter entertainment that asks for an evening. The more spiritual the exercise, the more will this Church prize it. This Church will never make the announcement that was made once, only this winter, viz., That as the weather was so bad, and sickness so prevalent, that few could get out, it was decided to postpone the concert and only have the ordinary prayer meeting." To a Holy Ghost Church the meeting for prayer will ever be

The language of Paul will become the expression THE meeting, or rather the meeting of the week; and the greatest treat that can be proposed will be an occasional whole day of waiting upon God. As with the individual saint, so with the Church; to be filled with the Spirit we must abide in prayerfulness, and filled with the Spirit we cannot but keep

Having thus pointed out the three great characteristics of a Holy Ghost Church, namely, devotion to the Word, absolute consecration to the glory of Christ, and saturation through and through with the spirit of prayer, there is little need to dwell on the other features which are certain to be found. They must be where these "first three" are. Sweet gentleness and lion-like boldness, great tenderness and unfaltering truthfulness, deep humility and uncompromising fidelity, sacred communions and burning missionary ardour, will all combine to make the full stature of a Church. Each member will think little of himself, more of his brethren, most of his Lord. None will seek to please themselves, but all find their pleasure in pleasing their Saviour. The cry of sorrow in one heart will awaken the echo of sympathy in another -the wealth of one will find its blessed investment in the poverty of another. The strong will grasp the weak, and the weak will feel no envy of the strong. As converts troop in-and they willfresh voices will be heard in prayer, and at each communion new members will take their places at the happy feast. Beneath the preaching of the precious Blood, sinners will be transformed into saints, and the saints mellowed into Christ likeness. Here the Lord will rest in His love, and the Well-Beloved feed amid His lilies. Saint and Saviour shall refresh each other. The mad world, with its noisy mirth, but miserable heart, will have no fascination for this holy, happy company. Weaned from the world-redeemed unto God-citizens of the heavenly country-each member will have the "far-away look that tells of a home, loved and longed for," while the lips will often pray, "Head of Thy Church, soon call Thy spouse; Yea, come, Lord Jesus, quickly come." This is my dream of a Holy Ghost Church. Spirit of God, make it a

EFFECTS OF APOLOGY.

ONE evening a young lady abruptly turned the corner and ran against a boy who was small and ragged and freckled. Stopping as soon as she could, she turned to him and said: "I beg your pardon; indeed, I am very sorry." The small ragged and freckled boy looked up in blank amazement for an instant; then, taking off about three-fourths of a cap, he bowed very low, smiled until his face became lost in the smile, and answered: "You can hev my parding, and welcome, miss; and yer may run agin me and knock me clean down, an' I won't say a word." After the young lady passed on he turned to a comrade and said, half apologetically," I never had anyone ask my parding, and it kind o' took me off my feet."

AN OLD PURITAN ON IDLENESS.

No man is too noble to have a calling. If iron had reason, it would choose rather to be used in labour than to grow rusty in a corner. By Mahomet's law the Grand Turk himself was to be of some trade. The hour of idleness is the hour of temptation; an idle person is the devil's tennis-ball, tossed by him at his pleasure. Among the Egyptians idleness was a capital crime. Among the Tuscans, he that lent money to an idle person was to lose it, saith Diphilus. By Solon's law idle persons were to suffer death. The ancients called idleness the burial of a living man; and Seneca had rather be sick than idle. Now, shall nature do more than grace? Shall poor blind heathens be so severe against idle persons, and shall Christians embrace them? Shall they not rather turn their backs upon them, and have no communion with those who think themselves too great or too good to hold the plough?-Thomas Brooks.

SORROW SENT BY A MERCIFUL GOD.

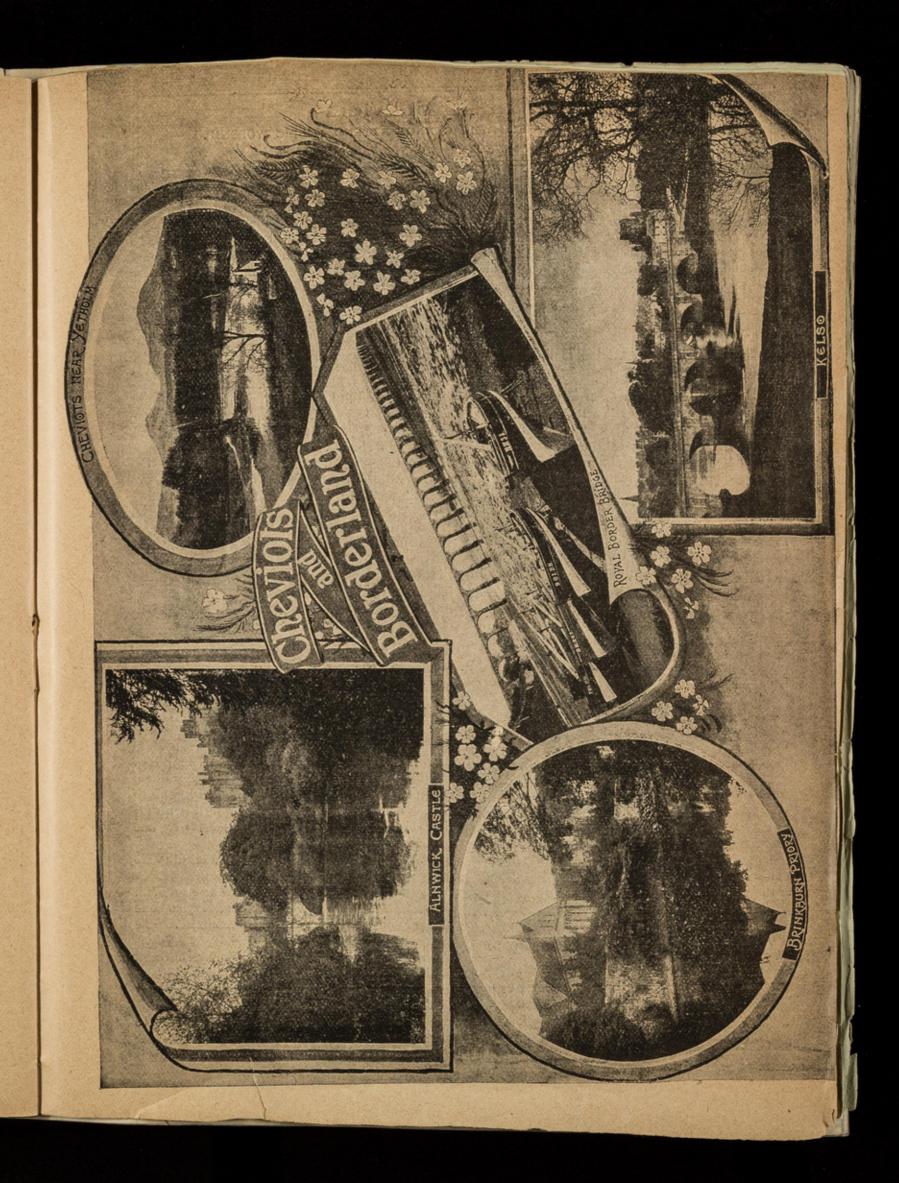

A GENTLEMAN was one day travelling by a coach, which was likewise occupied by a middleaged, respectable-looking man, and a very young woman, dressed in widow's mourning, with a baby appeared to be suffering great pain. After proceeding some little distance, the gentleman thus addressed his opposite companion: "I am sorry, sir, to see you so great a sufferer; I trust it is, however, some comfort to you to know that sorrow is not an accidental thing, but that it is sent for our good by a merciful God." "Merciful, sir, do you call Him?" replied the man; "I used to think Him merciful when I had my health and strength, but since He has afflicted me with this dreadful tic doloreux I think Him anything but merciful." Before the gentleman had time to answer, the young woman exclaimed: "Oh, do not say so, sir! I used never think of the mercy of God when I had all worldly things to make me happy, but when He at one sudden stroke removed the delight of my eyes, and left me with this little infant, almost in penury, then I found Him to be a merciful God, and a loving Father, and now I bless Him for my sorrows."

HOLD ON TO THE END.

In the battle of Gettysburg a young colourbearer of the 16th Regiment of Vermont Volunteers fell mortally wounded. Holding on firmly to his colour-staff he felt someone taking hold, and heard a voice say, "Give us the flag." Death was already blinding his eyes, and he was unable to see who it was. "Are you friends or enemies?" he asked. "We are friends," they replied. "Then, if you are friends," the dying boy continued, "let me hold the flag till I die." And uttering these words he fell back and expired. That was the impulse and act of a brave and true heart. The flag had been entrusted to his keeping. He could not and would not yield it to an enemy. He could not yield it to a friend, because he would cling to his trust to the end. His example, though but that of a boy, is one of the noblest and truest in history. Have you a trust committed to you? Yes. God has entrusted you with gifts and opportunities and duties. And Jesus says, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." Paul, just before his martyrdom, wrote to Timothy: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the on her knee. days, sometimes. Doubting Castle is not empty long together.

This depression of spirit is sometimes caused by illhealth. The closest scrutiny cannot discover the exact relationships between the physical and mental and spiritual parts of our nature. Experience teaches that they act and re-act upon one another. God's help can enable us to glory in our infirmities when it is not His will that they should be cured. But it is our duty to take great care of our body, His temple, that through it we may get gladsome views of Himself, and be free from needless depression. Sometimes we need not so much the Divine as the physician. Like Elijah, sion. It was so with this singer. He recalled hours of sweet fellowship, of which he still felt the need. He had caught a glimpse of the truth that Jehovah is everywhere, and knew that "private prayer is a brave design." But he also knew that "where most pray is heaven." Depressed soul! Hie to the sanctuary; hearken to the voice of joy and prayer; pour out your heart before God.

Sin depresses the spirit.

"Where is the happiness I knew When first I saw the Lord

Where you left it when you left the King's highway to stroll in By-path Meadow. "Return unto Me and I will return unto you," saith the Lord.

This Psalmist gives us a remedy for depression. "My soul is cast down within me: therefore will I remember Thee" (ver. 6). He recalled God's former mercies. From the land of Jordan, and of the Hermonites, and the Hill Mizar, he sent his punishment. thoughts and prayers to the ear of Him whom he for him. So cheer thee, my soul! SCIPTURE LESSON. Read Acts xvi. 16-34. Here are four steps towards God-

- 1. Confession of sin. If we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins (I John i. 9). We must shut out other sinners, less or at these places God had wrought great deliverances more sinful, we may think, than ourselves, and shut ourselves in with God: solus cum solo, one with one-the one God with the one sinner. "Be merciful to me!"

Coming to Christ means leaving sin and accepting His will as ours. If we thus come, humbly, sincerely, He accepts us; He receives us graciously and loves us freely. It is Christ's word, the truth, that if we thus come He receives us; the Holy Spirit enters and we are born of God. Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift!

HYMN. (No. 699 in Sacred Songs and Solos.) PRAYER.

SCRIPTURE LESSON. Kead Nehemiah viii.

Here is a programme for Christian Christmas cheer (verse 10).

"Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet." Our holy religion enjoins no unnecessary privations or restrictions upon innocent enjoyment. Iesus was often at the feasts, and He made more wine at Cana when they needed it. We must remember the restraints which health requires; remember to eat to live, not live to eat. The body must be brought under and kept in subjection. These important restraints observed, we may receive God's gifts with gladness, enjoy them, and, above all, thank Him who giveth us all things.

"And send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared." We must share our blessings; and,

"Scanty fare for one will often Mak a royal feast for two."

A morsel shared is a morsel sweetened; and, of all music to a meal, that is most delightful which consists of the grateful thanks of those with whom we share our supplies. Waste and excess are crimes, for this reason, among others, that they lessen our possibilities of giving. Wesley's rule was good-"Get all you can, save all you can, give all you "For the joy of the Lord is your strength." For the Christian, every cup of joy is consecrated by God's approval, and any joy that He cannot smile upon is condemned. "Dost Thou, dear Lord, approve?" is his question. If we thus go through Christmastide we shall have more joy in our hearts than in the time when their wine and their oil are increased, and all around us, too, will have cause to rejoice.

SCRIPTURE LESSON. Read Deuteronomy viii.

Before they crossed from the wilderness into the promised land, Moses bade the Israelites remember all the way the Lord their God had brought them. We may well do the same, ere we cross into the new land of the next year.

Remember the mercies of the way. The greatest miracle of our way has been that there has been no miracle, and yet we are the living to praise God. Day by day the manna has fallen for us. Our manifold needs-and how many and varied they are-have been all supplied. If our raiment has waxed old upon us, we have another in readiness. For us, as for Israel, there has been the pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night: the voice of God, in the word, and in the heart, and in our circumstances. The guiding Spirit has been given. Amid our weary marches we have now and again come to Elim with its wells and palm trees. And in our conflicts, the Lord has been with us to fight for us.

We need to remember, also, the sins and errors of the way, our doubts and fears, hardness of heart, pride and rebellion. Where did we murmur against the Lord? We, too, have joined in the cry, "Back to Egypt!" We had momentary longings for sin's indulgences. And we can tell of the time, many times perhaps, when we worshipped the golden calf. The closing hours of the year may well be spent upon our knees, remembering the mercies and the sins of the way.

Let us realise its purpose, too. The way has brought us almost to a new land. Very soon we shall enter upon the New Year. This year and all previous years have been a preparation for our coming days. God has led us these years in the wilderness to humble us and to prove us, to know what was in our hearts, whether we would keep His commandments or no. Have we learned the lessons of dependence and humility and obedience? Are we ready for the good land of the New Year? Let us bow before the Lord in full consecration, that we may enter upon a higher, holier life, dwelling henceforth-

> "In a land of corn and wine. Favoured with God's peculiar smile, With every blessing blest."

M Unselfishness. Ko

By Rev. JAMES SMITH.

HERE has been a great amount of talk during Grace Darling is a name we love, because she have manifested. As you are no doubt aware, this Jesus pleased not Himself"? coveted prize is given as a reward for conspicuous bravery displayed in the presence of the enemy; that is, it is presented to the men who do something very brave, which they could not be commanded to do, but which they chose to do V.C. in reality stands for unselfishness.

While we all appreciate the courage of the men who have thus gained this well-merited distinction, we cannot forget that there are a great many very courageous acts which are never recognised by the majority of people, and which, perhaps, none but God sees; yet we know that He who sees will surely reward. Among these are many performed by noble boys and girls.

Of such was Susan H-, whose sister Mary had been severely burned about her body. She was taken to the hospital, but after a time the doctor found that the wound would never heal unless one of her sisters allowed some skin to be taken from her healthy body and placed upon the open wound. To this painful operation Susan willingly submitted, for the sake of her sisier. We all agree that she is one of a band of little heroes, and calls forth our heartiest admiration.

It is, however, comparatively easy to admire unselfishness in others, while failing to cultivate it in our own lives. Let us remember that if our lives are to be beautiful, they must be unselfish. notably, lived for the good of others.

is because she devoted her life to the comfort of can I do to make others happy?" and thus you the soldiers in the Crimean war. The name of will learn the secret of being joyous yourselves. In Elizabeth Fry is dear to us, because she unselfishly this highest and noblest sense I would wish you sought to uplift the fallen in our prisons; and the past year about the deeds of daring per- risked her life in an open boat, that she might formed at the war in South Africa, and many save the lives of the drowning seamen. Is it not men have received the Victoria Cross, while also true that the reason so many of us love the others have yet to receive it, for the courage they name of Jesus is because it is said of Him, "Even

. . . . No one could ever point the finger of scorn at Jesus, and say that in any one moment of His life He manifested a selfish spirit. This is very wonderful when we remember how easy it is to from a purely unselfish motive. So you see the discover faults in others while overlooking the same faults in ourselves. This was shown by a little girl at a Christmas party once. A plate of apples was being passed round, on the top of which was a large rosy one. Several of the children modestly took the smaller fruit, but when at last a child ventured to take the large rosy apple. The little girl next to her exclaimed, "How greedy to take the largest, I meant to take that myself." Thus, sometimes unconsciously, we judge others concerning faults which are most conspicuous in ourselves.

We shall soon be commemorating what is considered to be the Anniversary of the Birth of Jesus Christ. When we do so at the coming Christmas, let us remember that the reason He left His home in heaven and became a man, was because He loved us with such a pure unselfish love that He was prepared to give his life to save us from sin; and let us know that, having lived a life of unselfishness, he submitted to the awful pain and sorrow of the Crucifixion, for our sakes. Would it not be a beautiful manner in which to celebrate His birthday if we were first to yield Him our heart's devotion, and then to seek to obey The truly beautiful life is always that which is, Him, and to follow in His footsteps by living truly unselfish lives. I trust each of you "little folks" The reason we all admire Florence Nightingale will ask yourselves this Christmas time, "What each one A HAPPY CHRISTMAS.

Interview with the Rev. J. Halsey, minister of anerley bongregational bhurch, at his residence" The Slawthorns" South Norwood Park.

Dec- 4th 1900 - J. A.

M' Halsey's lines appear to be cast in pleasant places. He lives in a large well furnished house, has a fine bhurch, which cost, with its subordinate buildings £20,000, every penny of which has been haid; and has a large prosperous congregation. Situated in a well to do neighbourhood, he hardly touches the fring of the poor, and as the accompanying manual fully sets forth the history, constitution, doings and finances of the Shurch, and gives photographs of M' Halsey and the building, there is little left to report.

M St. is the oldest Nonconformist minister in the district, having been here more than 30 years. He came to a district which was purely residential upper class, with plenty of open ground. Although still well to do in the immediate locality of his bhurch, the district is changing to working class, large numbers of small houses having been erected, such as those on the Berkbech and alexandra estates. Arpley R' he describes as very bad, - lodging houses & single rooms occupied by prostitutes and theeves, whilst Vineleigh R', S. Hugh's R' & are inhabited by he oble of low type. Arpley R' has obtained its character through being originally tenanted by labourers engaged in the building trade, and he has a vague idea that its first tenants worked on the erection of the brystal Palace. These streets turn out a very rough class of boy - real Hooligans - who are a source of much annoyance. He does not think anything much is being done to get hold of them. He is starting a Boys Brigade at his church, but does not expect to reach this class.

The new management of the brystal Palace is acting injuriously on the neighbourhood.

Minister, organist, caretaker haid. Good voluntary staff.

The bhurch holds 1250, is comfortably filled both Sunday morning and evening-fullest in the morning.

Free Church Council a failure. No direct cooperation, but indirect through the Penge and Beckenham Philanthropic Society, whose methods are strict investigation and substantial help. A secular organization, but the churches contribute and send or get grants in needy cases.

MANUAL FOR 1900.

PASTOR - - - REV. J. HALSEY.

bistorical Statement.

THE Congregational Church at Anerley was founded in the year 1856. The small Chapel in Jasmine Grove, the area of which is now contained within the pillars of the Lecture Hall, and which accommodated only 200 worshippers, was opened on 7th October, 1856, and cost, with land, &c., £1,100.

The Church was formed in May, 1857, under the presidency of Rev. T. C. Hine, and consisted of twentyone persons, most of whom were transferred from the Church at Sydenham, of which he was pastor.

The pulpit was occupied for several years by various non-resident ministers. The Rev. W. Hickman Smith (now Aubrey) was the first settled pastor. His labours commenced in June, 1862, and terminated in July, 1866.

In January, 1867, an invitation was given to the present pastor, then a student in Hackney College, who commenced his ministry on August 4th, and was ordained on October 3rd of that year.

In January, 1868, the Church resolved to erect a School-room (the present Infant Class Room in Jasmine Grove). Meantime, however, the Chapel accommodation being found inadequate, it was determined to enlarge the building by lateral extensions, the cost of the two undertakings being £1.500. The School-room was completed in August, 1868, and the Chapel was re-opened on the 22nd of the following December. The debt was paid off in 1871.

The continued increase of the Congregation rendered further extension necessary, and on October 8th, 1874, the Foundation-stone of our present Church Building was laid by Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., who contributed £500 towards the Building Fund. On Thursday, January 20th, 1876, the edifice was opened, Rev. A. Raleigh, D.D., being the preacher. £16,500 have been spent upon the building, organ, vestries, etc., which sum (with the exception of £700 now outstanding) has been paid off.

(THE CHURCH MEETING is held on the Wednesday preceding the first Sunday in every month, except the Annual Church Meeting in January, which is held on the Monday preceding the Anniversary Meeting.)

Anniversaries.

OPENING OF NEW CHURCH, Fourth Sunday in January. SUNDAY SCHOOL - - - Second Sunday in April. PASTOR'S SETTLEMENT - - First Sunday in August.

Membership.

Persons wishing to unite with the Church are requested to intimate their desire to the Pastor, either in the Vestry, after any of the Services, or at their own convenience at his residence.

Ordinances.

THE Ordinance of the Lord's Supper is administered on the Morning of the first and on the Evening of the fourth Sunday in the Month, at the conclusion of the ordinary Service. At the Evening observance unfermented wine is used.

The rite of Infant Baptism or Dedication is administered after the Morning Service as often as required, due notice being previously given from the Pulpit. Parents wishing to have their children baptized or dedicated should communicate with the Pastor, in order that he may arrange for an early opportunity.

Constitution.

THE Church is a Congregational Pædo-Baptist Church. At the same time its fellowship is open to all sincere disciples of Christ.

Congregationalists hold-

I.—The right of private judgment, free from all external authority, in matters of religion.

II.—That every local Congregation, composed of persons voluntarily associating together for purposes of Christian worship, is likewise independent of all human authority and control, external to itself, whether on the part of other Churches or of the State.

III.—That the Church properly consists only of those who are truly endeavouring to live the Christ-life.

These positions do not prejudice voluntary and fraternal association with other Churches and other denominations.

The Members of this Congregation admit that there exists amongst them considerable diversity of opinion upon several important doctrines of Theology; but they do not regard that difference as a bar to Christian Union, either among themselves, or with other communities.

They unite for the study of Christian truth, under the instruction of a Teacher, whom they do not regard as the retained advocate of certain doctrines, and therefore bound to publish them and support them; but as one whose duty it is to aid them in their studies by giving them the benefit of his earnest enquiry into the truth of God.

They seek to promote belief, not by requiring it authoritatively, but by searching for evidence in the freest spirit of enquiry, proving all things, and holding fast that which is good.

Finances.

THE entire income of the Church, for its ordinary purposes, is derived from the Weekly Offertory and Quarterly Collections. The liabilities thus met include Stipends for Minister, Organist, and Church Officer, Interest on Debt, and Miscellaneous Expenses connected with the Church and Lecture Hall.

The attention of the Congregation is earnestly invited to the following statements:—

- 1. Sittings are allotted without any fixed rent being charged.
- 2. Each seatholder is expected to make a weekly offering for the maintenance of the Ministry and the carrying on of the general work of the Church. £25 per week is the minimum sum required to meet all demands independently of the Debt.
- 3. Seatholders are expected to fix the amount of their offerings according to their ability, "as God hath prospered them," apart from any idea of pew rent or reference to what is done by others. It is desired that the weekly contribution should be distinctly regarded as a religious sacrifice and an act of worship.
- 4. The object of this system is to recognise the duty and privilege of regularly setting aside a proportion of our income for religious and philanthropic purposes,

5. The amount contributed by each seatholder is known only to the Registrars of the Offertory.

Church Rules.

- I. That any Member who shall be absent from the Lord's Supper, or irregular in attendance upon the Public Services of the Sanctuary for three consecutive months, without sufficient cause, shall forfeit Membership or incur suspension at the discretion of the Pastor and Deacons. All such cases to be reported to the Church at its annual Business Meeting.
- 2.—That any Member wishing to bring a subject under discussion at a Church Meeting be required to give a month's notice, in writing, of the same to the Pastor.
- 3.—That a special Church Meeting for the transaction of business and presentation of accounts be held at the end of January.
- 4.—That sittings not occupied with regularity for a period of two months be allocated to others in the absence of any reason for the irregular attendance.
- 5.—That the Pastor is President and the Deacons Members (ex-officio) of the Committees of all Societies connected with the Church.
- 6.—That only Members of the Parent Church at Anerley be entitled to vote on matters relating thereto, Members of the Branch Church (that is, those who although admitted by the Parent Church, yet do not hold sittings and regularly attend the administration of the Lord's Supper thereat) being eligible to vote only on subjects relating to the place at which they habitually worship.

The School meets in the Hall, Jasmine Grove, every Sunday Afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The general work of the School has been carried on during the past year under somewhat difficult circumstances. Through various causes a large number of teachers and officers have resigned, and unfortunately there seems a growing disinclination on the part of our Church members to take up this work, so that at times there have been as many as three classes without teachers. We leave this to the prayerful consideration of the Church, and volunteers will be gladly welcomed.

The "Children's Own Service" is held every Sunday morning, from 10 30 to 11.30, and is conducted by Mr. Ilott. The Service is of a bright and attractive nature, a short address being given by some friend at each meeting. To these friends we offer our grateful thanks. Average attendance, 30.

According to our rules, all youths on attaining the age of 16 years, are transferred to the Bible and Conversational class conducted by Mr. H. Ashford in the Church Vestry (see report on another page), but a Bible Class for Young Women is very successfully carried on in the small room adjoining the Hall, by Mrs. Ogilvy. New members will be heartily received.

A Gymnastic Class for the elder boys meets every Wednesday evening in the Hall, and is under the tuition of Mr. A. W. Norman. It has an average attendance of 25.

The senior lads' Club meets at the same place and on the same evening, at 8 o'clock, with Mr. Ilott as conductor, Its objects are instruction and amusement, and the Club is greatly appreciated by the lads.

The children had their Annual Treat, as usual, in the summer. In conjunction with Elmers End Sunday School and the Temperance Society, an Excursion was arranged to Bognor, when an enjoyable and exhilarating day was spent

A Conversazione was held in December for the parents of the children, but was not so well attended as we desired. This may possibly be accounted for by the inclemency of the weather.

We are indebted to the kindness of several members of the Congregation for so readily responding to our appeal for help to provide our Infant Class with a Christmas Treat. Could our friends have seen the delight and pleasure of the little ones, they would have felt amply repaid.

We express with much pleasure our gratitude to all friends who have kindly contributed to the funds of the School, either through our collectors or at our Anniversary Services.

GUILD LAWN TENNIS CLUB.

Treasurer—Mr. W. H. WALFORD. Secretary—Mr. SIDNEY LONG.

The ground, quite private and very pretty, is in the Anerley Road, behind the Church.

Through the kindness of a member of the Club, the rent has now been substantially reduced, and the coming season ought to put the finances in thoroughly sound condition.

The Club confidently offers the following advantages—

- 1. A capital ground.
- 2. Membership on very reasonable terms.
- 3. Excellent opportunities for forming and extending friendships.

N.B.—New-comers might make a special note of this.

Early application for membership should be made to the Secretary, as the new season will commence early in the Spring.

New Members will be heartily welcomed.

YOUNG MEN'S GYMNASTIC CLASS.

Secretary: —Mr. A. W. Norman, 14, Penge Road, South Norwood.

THE Gymnastic Class is now in its tenth year. The members, number 25, meet for practice in the Lecture Hall, Jasmine Grove, every Tuesday at 8 p.m., and every Friday at 8.30. During the last twelvemonth fresh apparatus has been purchased, and the Class now has parallel and horizontal bars, vaulting buck, trapeze, hand-rings, climbing ropes, dumb-bells, bar-bells, clubs, fencing sticks and helmets, jumping stand and boxing gloves, also a few very heavy weights for lifting exercise.

The Class is under the very able instruction of Mr. John Wheatley, who is well-known to many members of our Congregation. Mr. Wheatley's post is a purely honorary one. During the past two years the Class has given two semi-private Displays, and, judging by the enthusiasm displayed by the audience upon each occasion, the exhibitions of skill and muscular power gave intense satisfaction as well as great pleasure; and we hope to give another in April next. It will be seen from the accounts the affairs of the Class are in a very satisfactory condition. Anyone over 16 wishing to join is invited to apply to the Secretary. The Subscription is 2/6 and the entrance fee 1/-. Honorary members' subscription

During the past year we have had an increase in our membership, after allowing for removals. At the present time the Society numbers 165 Members.

The meetings of Members and friends held during the past year have been mainly of a social character.

A new branch of work was started in 1896, and is being carried on most successfully by a Committee of ladies. It is now called the "Women's Branch." (See below.)

Members are called upon by the Visitors of the Society monthly.

We hope for a further increase of membership during the coming year.

This Society carries on a number of Afternoon Meetings for Women at Elmers End, South Norwood, and our own Church Vestry, thus reaching many who find it difficult to attend Evening Lectures. A good address is given from 3.15 to 4 o'clock, after which tea and light refreshments are served, and much appreciated by the women.

This Society has, during the year 1899, held 13 meetings at different places in the locality, some in the afternoon and others in the evening. Meetings are held once a month, and occasionally twice, with the exception of August and September. Speakers from well-known Societies have attended to address the meetings. A Garden Fête was held in the month of July.

A pleasant Social Evening is held once a month at Jasmine Grove for young people, and it is proposed to continue these on the first Thursday evening of each month during the year 1900. A Young People's Committee has been added, which carries out the musical part of the entertainment.

Slate Club.

President-Rev. JOSEPH HALSEY.

Treasurer--Mr. J. Alfred Fisher, 146, Croydon Road.

Secretary—Mr. George Hone, 54, Wordsworth Road.

Members of the Church are requested, as opportunity may arise, to direct the attention of Working Men to the benefits conferred by this Club, which meets in the Vestry behind our Lecture Hall, Jasmine Grove, between 7 and 8 on alternate Saturday evenings in the Winter, and from 8 to 9 in the Summer.

By a contribution of 6d. per week, provision is made against ill-health, the sick allowance being 10/- per week for 13 weeks, and 5/- per week for a further 13 weeks, if incapacity for work be prolonged.

In the event of the death of a Member, a levy of 1/6 (or 1/- in case of a Member's wife) is made upon all the Members, and the total amount is paid to the surviving members of the family.

The surplus, which usually amounts to about twothirds of the total contributions, is invested in the Post Office Savings Bank, and divided among the Members at the Annual Meeting held on the third Saturday evening in December.

Further information may be obtained at the Hall, or from the Secretary or Treasurer as above.

Messrs. Allen, Archer, Heard, Price and Tricker.

The work of the Mission continues to make steady progress, and receives sympathy and respect from the village population, if not as much active support as could be desired. I can speak with confidence upon this point, as, having temporarily undertaken the duty of visitor in one of our districts, I find in almost every case a cordial welcome awaiting me, although many of the folk are nominally attached to the neighbouring Church.

On the whole there is much to encourage at the end of another year of labour, in spite of some adverse circumstances.

Our Sunday Evening Service is a bright feature in Mr. Wardle's work, being well attended; but there is much difficulty in obtaining a satisfactory Week-day Service.

The various institutions are in a healthy condition. The Sunday Morning School is conducted solely by Mr. Allen, our brother Mr. Ollive having removed from the neighbourhood.

Mrs. Wardle continues to preside over the Mothers' Meeting, which is well attended.

The Young People's Christian Endeavour Society and Band of Hope are carried on by a few devoted workers, and are very popular.

The Penny Bank is extending its usefulness, and the deposits in 1899 were considerably larger than for some years past.

The Weekly Offering has been maintained at about the improvement announced last year, although we have lost some good contributors by removal. As will be seen by the Treasurer's account, the amount raised from all sources at Elmers End shows a very considerable increase upon that of the previous year.

I regret to have to announce that Mrs. Halsey, who has for so many years acted as Collector for the Home Mission Fund, has been compelled to resign her office owing to indifferent health. Mrs. H. B. Ashford, Miss Ashford and Mrs. T. W. Rudd have, however, kindly consented to undertake the work.

We have also to regret the retirement of Mr. Mitchell from the Superintendentship of our Sunday School, and a successor is urgently required. Mr. Pilbeam, a former Superintendent, has kindly come to our help, on the understanding that his assistance is to be considered temporary. It is hoped that some gentleman will feel constrained to come forward and fill the gap.

Like most Churches, we suffer from a dearth of available workers, and many offices are concentrated in few hands. Unfortunately we have but a small eligible constituency to draw upon at Elmers End, and for some time to come we must depend upon help from the parent Church. After all, the work is hers, and we are assured that her active and sympathetic support will not fail to be forthcoming.

By the regulations, he is supposed to visit 40 soldiers, 10 converts and 10 Juniors a week. and all converts within 14 days. He does much more than this. Some of his meeting he can delegate to others this give more time to the visiting and general work.

Charity. For spleial cases they make collections the object being first sanctioned by the officers. I her only help people they know. A number of card gets come and will fo to the pendent form if they want a nights lodging. These the Adjutant does not like. Interview with the Rev. Arthur Hancock, Head of the Lee Circuit of the Bible Christians, and in special Charge of the church at Lee. At his residence, 283 High Road, Lee. (E.A.) Dec.6.00.

Mr. H. has been here for 8 years. Is a man of about 50; dark; rather good-looking, with something of the actor and musician in his appearance, though perhaps not in his nature. Rather an attractive man. Married, and living in a house that belongs to a friendly landlord who lets them have it for £35 a year. The rent of the duplicate house next door is £40, and appears to be cheap at that, with its eleven rooms.

Mr. H. described the district as going markedly downwards socially, but as being still both respectable and quiet. It has many of the characteristics of a village. There is very little poverty, and "then only through drink".

Mis own people include a few tradesmen, but are mostly working-class, many of them gardeners and such-like. They have very few poor in their congregation, and the chirch Benevolent Fund only amounts to about £5 or £10 a year. Seven-eighths of their own people are total abstainers, and all the ministers of the denomination. There is no rule about it, but sentiment is so strong that it comes to the same thing.

Mr. Hancock is "Chapel Secretary" for the London
District of the Denomination, and gave me a report of the "Highty-second Annual Conference of the Ministers and Representatives of the people denominated Bible Christians".
This was held at Penzance, during August, 1900, and the following cutting gives particulars relating the London
District, including, it will be noticed, chapels at Tottenham, Brighton, and Sevenoaks, but not including those at Eltham and Hither Green, which, with the one at Lee, make up Mr. Hancock's circuit. Both are small, and both of recent origin.

The financial aspects of the London District are reported on on pp. 71.72, the general results being stated to represent "a splendid year's work".

On p. 77, an abridged report of a committee formed for the promotion of Methodist "concerted Action" is given, and on p.78 the General Statistics of Methodism, in all its branches throughout the world. It is noteworthy that while at home the Sunday Scholars are roughly xxxx about twice as numerous as Church Members and Probationers, the grand total of the latter (7,382,086) exceeds that of the latter by more than a million. Of this excess, the figures for Africa and the United States appear to be the chief explanation.

LEE CIRCUIT. At Lee they are well off for buildings, having a Chapel (500) 2 schools, and four class rooms.

Membership, 168. Sunday morning average, 200; evening,

300. Sunday School teachers, 24. Sunday School: register, 200; average, 150.

At Eltham, they have only a "little place". Member-ship, 39. Congregation (working-class) Sunday morning, 30; evening, 60. The Sunday School is of the nature of a Bible Class. All just starting here.

Both at Lee and Eltham "Anglican influence" is very strong. At the latter place it is difficult to make head-way. At the former, it is "not difficult to hold our own, but hard to increase". An important influence at Lee appears to be the Adult Temperance Meeting, with about 150 members. They are mostly an inside set, but, although much aggressive work does not appear to be done, Mr. H. justified the meetings for their social value, and because they helped to "strngthen convictions".

as a chapel but there they hope to build; accommodation for 300. Membership only 23, but things  are promising*. Sunday morning average 40 to 50; evening, 100. Very hopeful about Sunday School, where they have already nearly  150 on the register.

A.few other particulars * about the Circuit are given on the Plan. The Sister of the People mentioned on it is now married, and is lost as a systematic worker.

Mr. H. described Lee in somewhat favourable terms as regards the prevailing social and moral conditions. It appears to present few special problems of difficulty, and to be for the most wwink part a quiet, respectable place, socially, on the down-grade. Housing presents no special difficulty here, although rents were often high, especially for the smaller houses.

NEW CENTURY FUND.

The Bible Christian Conference proposes to raise a New Century Fund of £25,000 for the building of New Chapels and the general extension of our work, as a Connexional Thank-Offering to God for His great goodness to us as a Church and people. We commend the proposal to the earnest consideration of all. Our own Circuit is immediately interested in view of the new enterprise at Hither Green, and further help to the Chapels from the Free Loan Fund.

The Circuit Quarterly Meeting has passed the following resolution:—
"That we heartly support the action of the Conference in inaugurating the New Century Fund, and promise to do our best in aid of the Fund at a later period."

Offerings are taken at the close of each Public Service on the Sabbath in support of the Work of God. "Bring an offering and come into His courts."

The next Quarterly Meeting will be held at Lee on Wednesday, December 26th, 1900, at 8.30 p.m.

Note on the Rev. A.F. Joscelyne, Minister of the Congregational Church-in-the-Grove, Sydenham. (E.A.)

Mr. J. was the friend whom I found smoking the pipe of Monday monning repose with Mr. Tipple, and, with the permission of the latter, I talked a little about the church-in-the-Grove. Conditions were, he said, analogous to those prevailing at Mr. Tipple's own chapel, but his. "If Mr. Tipple does not mind my so putting it" "is more of a church", by which he meant that there was more corporate church-life, and more of the ordinary church machine ery. One difference, for instance, to which Mr. J. was not himself inclined to attach very much importance. was the existence of a distinct body of churn members; these numbered 170, and in addition there were about 30, who "for reasons of their own" prefrred to remain outside the church body, but who were to all intenxts and purposes on the same footing as the members, save that they could not take part in church meetings, etc.

The people are of a somewhat lower class than Mr.

Tipple's socially, and do not come from so far afield.

The Chapel holds 600, and, in the morning is "fairly full

In the evening, there are not so many". The congregation, mainly mid le-class, includes some working-class, but no poor. In Sydenham, as previously in Norwood, the Unit-arians have come, and Mr. J. is hoping that there as they did in Mr. Tipple's neighbourhood, they will come to the conclusion that they are "not wanted".

They have a Mission Hell, "Park Hall", and carry on a work among the Sydenham poor. These, as in the case of New Town, at Norwood, are small in number as compared with the surrounding well-to-do, and, also as in the case of New Town, Mr. Joscelyne thinks that they are "overdone."

Mr. J. is a man of 55 or 60; sturdy in build, and rather commonplace in expression as compared with the exceptional man in whose company I found him, but very pleasnt, very honest, as we have seen a very devoted friend and admirer, and, as we may probably conclude from that relationship, courageous in his search for and exposition of the Truth. Morally as stalwart, but intellectually and spiritually, of much rougher build.

According to promise he has sent me his Manual, and this contains full particulars of the Church and its various agencies.

INTIMATION OF SICKNESS.

Members of the Church and Congregation are earnestly requested, in cases of illness, to send intimation in writing to the Minister or one of the Deacons. It is their desire to leave no friend unvisited in illness or other distress; but unless this request be complied with they are unable to succeed. "Is any sick among you? Let him call for the elders of the Church."—James v. 14.

To the Church and Congregation.

My DEAR FRIENDS,

The work that can be tabulated in a printed report very imperfectly represents what has been done. Behind the facts and figures are thoughts, feelings, efforts, prayers, self-denial and self-sacrifice which find no expression, yet which are none the less essential and effectual. "God is not unrighteous to forget your work and the love which you have showed toward His name." Each of us may find in the report matter for reflection, and a stimulus to renewed consecration. Is our "work of faith and labour of love and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, before our God and Father" represented here? Have we done all we could and therefore all we ought for the Master whom we profess to love and serve?

This is the closing year of, to say the least, one of the most remarkable centuries in the history of the world; second only to that first century, A.D., which was distinguished above all others by the earthly life, sufferings and death of the Son of God for the redemption of the world. Such a year may well prompt us to look backward and forward, to review the past and consider our position in regard to the future.

The first feeling prompted by such review is one of thanksgiving for a century of unprecedented prosperity and progress, Material, Intellectual, Moral and Spiritual. Our national commerce and wealth have advanced by leaps and bounds. Discoveries and inventions, the application of steam, gas and electricity, unknown a hundred years ago, have multiplied our industries and minister to our comfort and luxury. Missionary and philanthropic agencies for the relief of ignorance and suffering at home and abroad distinguish this century above all preceding ones. In no respect has progress been more marked than in the freedom of thought, the extension of civil and religious liberty, the recognition of the sacred rights of conscience, the divine, indefeasible right of every man to believe and to worship God according to his conscience. Not until 1778, little more than 100 years ago, could Roman Catholics legally officiate at Divine worship, or engage in the work of education, or purchase, inherit, or hold landed property. Before 1813, only 87 years ago, Unitarians could not legally meet for worship; and until 1828, 72 years ago, no one could hold office in a Municipal Corporation without taking the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper according to the rites of the Established Church, renouncing the Solemn League and Covenant, and swearing that he believed it unlawful to take up arms, upon any pretence whatever, against the Sovereign. The Catholic Emancipation Bill, passed in 1829, first allowed a Roman Catholic to be a Member of Parliament, but it was not till 1858 that Jews were admitted to the same privilege, and until 1847 no Jew could become a Mayor, Alderman, or Town Councillor. Free-Churchmen could not be married in their own places of worship previous to 1836, in which year also the London University was founded, the first, and, for more than a generation, the only opportunity of obtaining a degree without any religious test. The injustice of compelling Free-Churchmen to pay rates in support of a Church to which they could not conscientiously conform was perpetuated until 1868; the National Universities were not open to any, except on condition of conformity to the Established Church, until 1871, and still more recent, 1880, is the right to bury our dead in National Churchyards with our own religious rites. These triumphs of religious liberty, these victories over religious bigotry and oppression, which have been won by the earnest striving of our forefathers who were faithful to conscience, who suffered persecution and endured hardness as good Soldiers of Jesus Christ, the Truth, are a cause for devout thanksgiving by us who reap to-day the fruit of their sacrifices and sufferings. These conflicts and victories are also a reason for earnest consecration on our part to carry on the good work, to spread the good tidings of God's redeeming love and power, to persuade our fellow men at home and abroad to "repent and believe in the Gospel," to advance the cause of civil and religious liberty, of intellectual and spiritual freedom, to uphold the spiritual conception of the Church, the sacred rights of conscience, the freedom of education in National Schools, Training Colleges, as well as in National Universities, from all religious tests whatever, to firmly withstand sacerdotalism, superstition and godlessness, the worship of power and wealth.

As an expression of our thankfulness and consecration the TWENTIETH CENTURY FUND has been inaugurated. It is proposed that our Churches throughout the land should raise a sum of 500,000 guineas by September, 1901, for the extension of Missionary work at home and abroad, to support poor churches and to establish new churches where they are needed in rapidly rising districts of our large towns and cities.

We have already pledged ourselves to contribute £75 to the New Congregational Church at Hither Green, which is to be opened shortly, and have already paid £57 6s. 4d. of this amount and have £12 additional promised. A collection during this year will, it is hoped, discharge this liability.

Recognising however that our home debt has the first claim upon us, we have determined to endeavour to pay off the mortgage of £400 on Park Hall, which was raised to meet the expenses of building this Church, and ought to have been paid long ago. At our Social Meeting on December 6th, 1899, the following resolution was accordingly passed:—

"To aim at raising the sum of Five Hundred Guineas by October 1st, 1901, in single, annual, monthly, or weekly contributions, to pay off the Mortgage on Park Hall, and to give the balance, or one-fifth of any less amount that is raised to the Central Twentieth Century Fund." If, from January, 1900, to September, 1901, inclusive, 20 persons will give 5/- per month or £5 5s. od. in one sum,
40 , 2/6 , £2 12s. 6d. ,, 200 ,, 1/- ,, £1 1s. od. ,, our aim will be accomplished, and we shall have the joy of worshipping in a building entirely free from debt.

Vigorous and united effort, involving thought, self-denial and self-sacrifice will be needed to attain this desirable result. Young as well as old are earnestly invited to co-operate, and I am thankful to say that the response of some of our young friends in the Sunday School is most encouraging. It must be a Special Effort, additional to our ordinary contributions for religious work, and must not interfere with the claims we already acknowledge. It is an effort which appeals especially to the young, to whom the coming century principally belongs. Before the first quarter of that century is past most of those who are now middle aged will have passed away, and "instead of the fathers will be the children." Our two youngest deacons, Mr. A. M. Worrell and Mr. H. Douglas Jameson, have consented to be Secretary and Treasurer respectively of this Fund. In response to 250 circulars sent out, 110 answers have been received with promises amounting to £220 7s. 6d. Those who have hitherto overlooked the appeal or not recognised its claim upon them are earnestly asked to consider their responsibility in this matter.

In conclusion, may I remind you that voluntary giving to God for the Service of our fellow men is a Privilege and an Honour, the response of our heart to God's goodness, the proof of our love to Him who loved us and gave Himself up for us. (II. Cor. viii. 8 and 9). Our responsibility is according to our ability. (II. Cor. viii. 12, ix. 6-8).

May each one prove himself "called, chosen, faithful"!

I am, my dear friends, faithfully yours,

April, 1900.

A. F. JOSCELYNE.

Scholars' Scripture Examination.—Out of the 22 scholars who sat for examination by the Sunday School Union 13 passed. Ethel Mary Fudge was successful in gaining a Second Prize in the Junior Division, the remaining 12 received Certificates of Merit, two of whom were presented with a Bible by W. Day, Esq., of Forest Hill.

School Anniversary.—This was held on Sunday, March 26th, the Rev. T. Eynon Davies took the service in the morning, and the Rev. J. W. Bowman, M.A., B.D., in the afternoon and evening. On the following Wednesday (March 29th) a Public Meeting was held in Park Hall; the Rev. A. F. Joscelyne, B.A., presided; addresses were given by Mr. J. W. Medwin (a former superintendent of the Sunday School), and Mr. E. W. Johnson; the School Reports were read; vocal and instrumental music and recitations were provided by the teachers.

Summer Treats.—The larger school, accompanied by the teachers and a good number of friends, travelled by special train to Littlehampton, where a very happy day was spent. The scholars under 15 contributed 9d. each, and those over 15 1/6 each, towards the expenses. The Infants' treat, held in a local field (the use of which was obtained for us by Mr. H. White), proved the usual success, and gave them much enjoyment. The teachers, accompanied by members of the choir, spent a Saturday afternoon together at Chiselhurst. In the unavoidable absence of the Minister and Mr. Johnson, the party went under the guidance of Messrs. C. Short and Chalfont.

Day of Special Prayer for Sunday Schools.—This was observed on October 15th; a well attended Prayer Meeting was held at 9.15 in the morning, and in the afternoon the Rev. D. M. Jenkins gave a special address to the scholars.

The Scripture Union for the systematic reading of the Bible continues to exert a good influence over the girls who attend its meetings. Miss Marsland, who has kindly taken the place of Miss Gibson, will be pleased to enrol new members from the Church or School.

The International Bible Reading Association is also doing similar work in the study of the weekly international scripture lesson, the portions selected bearing upon the next Sunday afternoon lesson. Mr. F. Marsland, who has the oversight of this branch, will be pleased to receive applications for membership.

Sunday Morning Separate Service for Infants and Junior Scholars, has during the past year been under the superintendence of Mr. Johnson, assisted by Miss Hall and Miss McAdam.

The Monthly Sewing Meetings, under the presidency of Mrs. Johnson, make useful garments for children (from goods supplied by the Mission Fund of the school), which are forwarded yearly to Miss Sharman's Orphanage in Parents' Tea.—This was held on Monday. November 20th, when about 90 parents sat down to tea, after which a public meeting was held, the Rev. A. F. Joscelyne in the chair, when capital addresses were given by Messrs. H. Greenwood and A. M. Worrell; vocal and instrumental music was provided under the direction of Miss Marsland.

The Social Evenings, held every alternate Friday, continue to be a source of enjoyment and recreation to a number of our elder scholars, a special feature in connection with these evenings has been the entertaining of the Junior Scholars of the school at a New Year's party by members of this Society, assisted by the teachers.

Floral Service.—This was held on Sunday, June 25th, when a former method of displaying a text on a screen was adopted, the text being "The Seed is the Word of God"; floral contributions for local sick and hospitals were collected and afterwards distributed.

Home and Foreign Mission Fund.—This fund is raised entirely by the scholars for Home and Foreign Mission work. The following amount has been raised and distributed:—

A parcel of clothing, made by past and present members of the Young Women's Bible Class, was sent to Miss Harris, Middlesbrough, for use in her Mission work.

During last year the school has sustained the loss of a considerable number of teachers, viz.: the Misses Chitty, Scott, Gibson, Short, E. Tidmarsh, Topley, and Messrs. Tew and Thorman, owing to removal and other causes.

The officers and teachers earnestly thank all those who have kindly assisted in the past, and sincerely plead for continued help in the future.

During the year 1899 the visitors named above have distributed 5,148 copies of The Cottager, in the district of Wells Road. The paper is much appreciated, and by it an opportunity is obtained of sympathising with and assisting those who need help. The visitors are also almoners for the Relief Society. But unless the funds can be considerably increased this useful Society will have to give up much of its work, which would be a great pity. The treasurer feels sure that friends will reduce the adverse balance when they know the need.

Treasurer-Mr. F. J. Bonallack.

Mrs. Peach.

For administrative purposes the Church-in-the-Grove is connected with the Metropolitan Kent section of this Association. By means of the funds the Committee support Churches unable to exist without such help. The necessity for vigorous Free Church life and true Protestant teaching increases every year, and, perhaps, nowhere more than in Kentish villages and small towns. Hence the necessity for all our stronger Free Churches to aid to their utmost the weaker Churches, which is the chief aim of this Association.

In consequence of the removal from the neighbourhood of some of our previous subscribers, the treasurer regrets to report a decrease in the total of subscriptions as compared with previous years. New friends amongst us may be able to help in remedying this in the coming year.

£13 18s. 3d. has been paid to the central fund.

SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.

This Society has very great pleasure in being able to present to the Church this record of its sixth year's work.

A slight decrease has occurred in our membership, the numbers of which now stand as follows: 19 Active, 5 Associate, 13 Honorary; Total, 37.

As regards meetings, 47 have been held, among which six were of a Missionary character and one a Social, held on March 14th.

Again as formerly the Society conducted and joined with the Week-night Services during Mr. Joscelyne's holidays, and also during his much regretted illness and consequent absence from Sydenham.

Our five Committees constitute our working organisation. The Look-out and Social Committee, besides arranging and conducting Socials, attends to the general interests of the Society, and strives to make strangers welcome and comfortable.

The syllabus and all ordinary meetings are arranged by the Prayer Meeting Committee.

Missionary meetings are naturally provided by the Missionary Committee, which has this year sent £3 2s. Id. to the London Missionary Society, and has besides raised the sum of just over £5 for the maintaining of a native Indian boy at Mr. Lester's school at Bellary. This sum, if subscribed for several years, will fit this boy for a Christian teacher, and will, it is hoped, be a great source of good. The amount has been raised quite apart from, and without detriment to the ordinary collections.

Cabmen, factory girls, and inmates of various institutions, hospitals, etc., have again been remembered by the Magazine Committee in their work of distributing good and wholesome literature. A large variety of magazines is necessarily required to provide suitable reading for the various recipients of these parcels, and the members of this Committee will thankfully receive contributions of the same, which may be left at Mrs. Bonallack's, 23, Sydenham Road.

It is believed and hoped that the flowers distributed by the Flower Committee have been the means of brightening the lives of the poor and suffering.

In closing, the Society would bring to notice that its object is to promote an earnest Christian life among its members, to increase their mutual acquaintance, to make them more useful in the service of God, and to promote the interests of the Church with which it is associated. Any young people of the Church and Congregation will be most heartily welcomed.

The members of this Society hold a working meeting every fortnight during the winter months. The useful and fancy articles which are then made are sold at a Sale of Work, held usually in May. The object of the Sale is to raise funds for the purpose of sending poor children for a fortnight's holiday in the country.

Thirty-four children were, by means of this Society, sent into the country or to the seaside from the Borough Market and other places last year.

While thanking friends for past help, the members earnestly desire their continued support and sympathy in this good work, and hope they will encourage them by aiding in making the coming Sale a greater success than any previous one.

The work has been progressing steadily during 1899, and the attendance, though small, has been regular, showing an average for the year of 32 per meeting. This of course indicates that very many new members can be accommodated in Park Hall. and any Sunday School teachers who will bring their scholars or other young friends to the meetings, which are held at 7 o'clock on alternate Fridays, will have the satisfaction of rendering welcome assistance in a worthy cause.

. . . General Information. . . .

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE CHURCH is such that, while the Pastor and Officers must have been baptised, Believers are admitted as Members who, on conscientious grounds, object to baptism, or who are physically unable to undergo the Ordinance.

THE LORD'S SUPPER is commemorated on the first Sunday in the month after the Evening Service, and on the third Sunday after the Morning Service. Members of other Churches are welcomed at the Lord's Table.

ABSENCE FROM COMMUNION for six consecutive months is considered as betokening a decline of Spiritual Life, and renders liable to loss of Membership, unless satisfactory reasons can be given.

ENQUIRERS and Candidates for Church Membership are invited to meet the Pastor after any of the Services.

CASES OF SICKNESS, affliction, or need of Spiritual Council, should be reported to the Pastor, and not left to come to his knowledge in an indirect manner. He will readily go wherever he can be of any service.

CHANGE OF RESIDENCE should be immediately communicated to the Secretary, If the removal be to a distance, and likely to be permanent, it is strongly urged that members should unite with some church in their neighbourhood as soon as convenient.

SITTINGS may be obtained after any of the Services. The payment for any Sitting is from two to six shillings per Quarter, according as the seat holder may conscientiously feel able to pay. It is requested that carpets, hassocks, &c., may be all of a crimson colour, to prevent the untidy appearance resulting from different colours being used.

FINANCE. The Pastor's Stipend and the Incidental Expenses are met by the Weekly Offerings and Pew Rents.

The Hymn Book used is "Psalms and Hymns," with the Supplement, which can be had on application to the Secretary, after any of the services, price—from 6d. each. It is hoped that all regular attendants will be provided with them, so that those marked "For the use of Visitors" may be available for Strangers The tunes are generally selected from the "Bristol Tune Book."

MARRIAGES may be solemnized in the Chapel. All information may be obtained on application to the Pastor.

Jan. 24th, 1878-Rev. T. Greenwood commenced his Ministry at the Perry Hill Lecture Hall.

June 8th, 1878-The Church was formed.

Mar. 3rd, 1880-The Chapel was opened.

Nov. 8th, 1883-The Mission Hall at Bell Green was opened.

This work has been most successfully carried on during the past year, the only difficulty encountered being lack of space to accommodate the large number of scholars who attend week by week.

During the summer months this difficulty was met by erecting a large tent on the ground behind the hall, for the accommodation of the infants who number from 80 to 90.

There are 315 names on the books including the infants, and the average attendance has been Morning Service 150, Afternoon School 250. The School succeeded in winning the Challenge Banner presented by W. DAY, Esq., for competition amongst the Schools of the Auxiliary for regular and punctual attendance during 1898, and thus held the trophy during 1899. We are hoping that our figures for the past year will entitle us to hold the banner for another season.

In February last the Winter Treats were given, and owing to the large number of scholars, we had to entertain those under ten years of age on one evening, and those over that age on the next. Both entertainments were highly appreciated.

On August 1st in conjunction with the Catford Hill School we went to Court Farm, Upper Warlingham. This excursion was most successful and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who went.

There is a good Library connected with the School.

Our branch of I.B.R.A. is about 70 strong.

Rev. NEWTON VANSTONE, Mr. D. STRATFORD SCADENG Treasurer:—Mr. BERRY Hon. Secretary:—Mr. A. T. CURTIS

This Society has flourished during the past year; the number on the roll being 28 as against 19 for the previous year.

The average weekly attendance has correspondingly increased from 10 to 20.

Three committees are in active work and give evidence of the spiritual vitality of the Society which has also a representative on the "Worlds Convention Committee."

Successful open air meetings were held every Tuesday during the summer at Rushey Green, near the Fire Station. The young people of the Society had these meetings entirely in hand and the results were very gratifying. To God be the Glory.

The weekly meetings for Prayer, Bible-Study and Testimony, are held on Tuesday evenings, at 8 o'clock in Brownhill Hall.

Burnt ash bongregational bhurch. 4 12

The pastorate of this bhurch is at present vacant, the former minister, (Rev. 9. britchley), leaving owing to disagreement with his congregation on the subject of the South african war.

The following particulars of the various agencies in operation at this burch are culled from the Monthly Letters for 1898 lent to us by M. a. Barton, of 131 Burnt ash Road, Lee (The Secretary)

Buldings The bhurch, which is situated on Burnt ash Still, was formed in 1874, and has sittings for 600. The premises also include a Sunday School, Secture Hall and Shurch Parlour.

Two services are held on Sunday at 11 am 9 ypn, and the offerings average about £4 every Sunday. The Sunday School has 134 children on its books, with an average of 80: 18 teachers are engaged in this work.

a Young Women's Bible blass is held on Sunday afternoon at 3. 15, and the week is broken by a Treaching Service on Wednesday, evening.

Social agencies.

These include a Christian Endeavour Society 4 a mothers meeting on Monday; a Band of Stoke with 110 members on the books and an average attendance of 80, meeting on Tuesday; and the South Lee Book Society with a circulating library, giving papers on Poetry ve.

Relief is administered thro' the medium of the Dorcas Society, which employs "poor deserving women." to the extent of £ 18 in 1898 booheration is effected by means of the Lewisham & Lee Nonconformist bouncil' which gives Lectures on Free bhurch principles and promotes conferences, at the various bhapels joining with it.

Nor is the activity of this bhurch purely local, for having few poor in its neighbourhood, it is promoting a Branch bhurch in Brownhill Road, for which £ 30 was raised in the first six months of 1898.

Three missionary organizations are in existence.

1) The fuverile Messionary Lociety shent £ 18 in support of individual Messionaries & scholars abroad, and gave £ 52 to the London Missionary Society, in 1898.

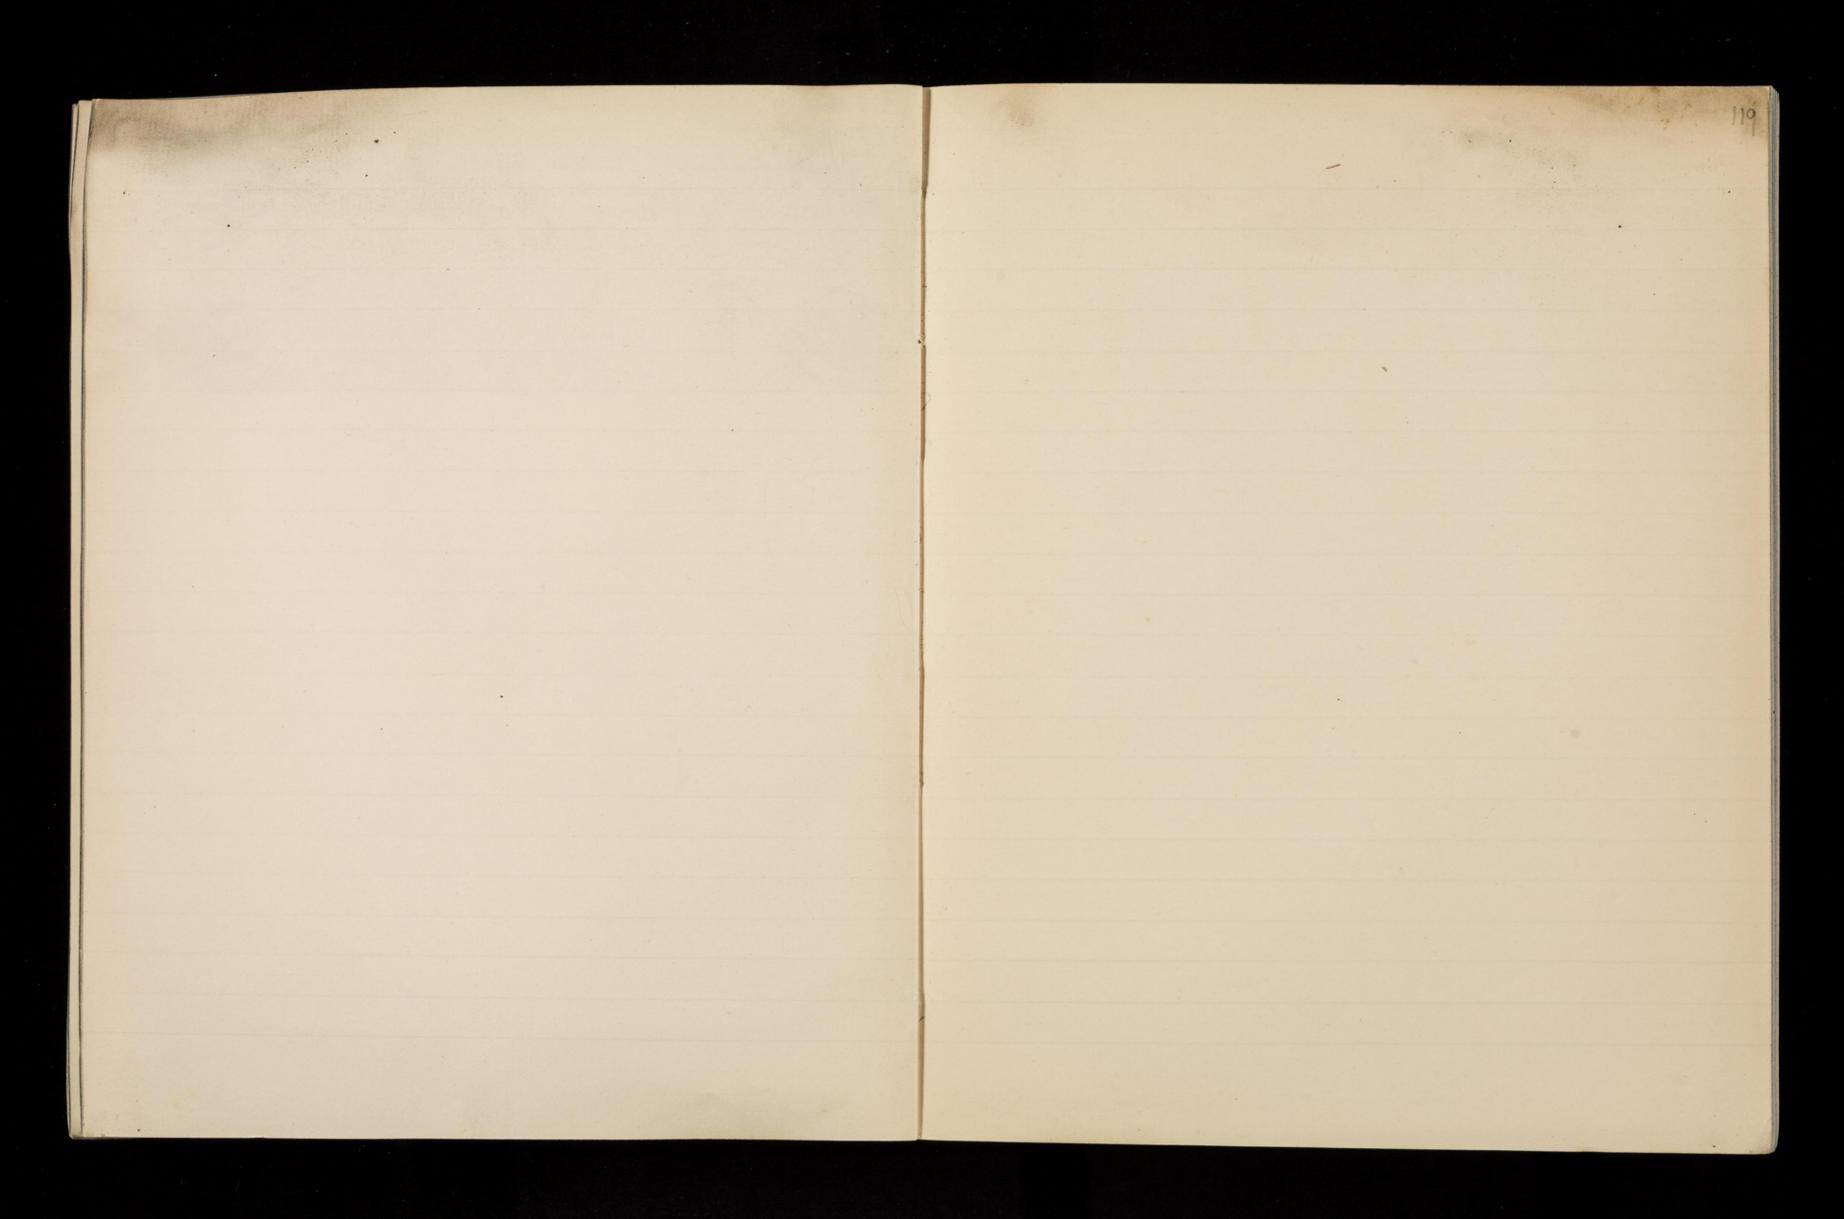

The Missionary Working Party, subscribes the London bity Mission, and 3 The Burnt ash association in aid of Home & Foreign Missions gave £30 to the St. Mission, London Missionary Society & one or two smaller agencies.

Thrift is encouraged by 4 clubs in connection with the mother's meeting, into which over £40 was put in 1898

Great attention seems also to be haid to the musical part of the Public Services, a monthly

Burnt ash Cong & Church. notices of the members of the Choir (a full one) expected to be present being inserted in the Letter. 1.°C. 8.1.1901
